FATHER OF 5 IN HOSPITAL WITH RIFLE WOUND

Melvin C. Pryor, 37, Gettysburg R. 2, is in the Warner Hospital with a bullet wound in the upper left arm, the result of what state police of the Gettysburg substation said was an attempt on Pryor's part late Saturday night to take his own life.

Pryor, police said, had been employed up to about two weeks ago as a laborer for Johnson and March, York contractors. He had no automobile and had ridden back and forth, to and from his job with a nephew. Recently the nephew's car broke down, and he quit his York job to take a new one at the government's "Little Pentagon" project.

Police said Pryor worried about being unable to get the work. On Saturday he went to Highfield, Md., to visit his father, who brought him back to Emmitsburg. Pryor then walked five miles from Emmitsburg to his home near Natural Dam.

Gun Slips On Linoleum

He arrived about 11 p.m., went into the bedroom and picked up a .22 caliber rifle, which he took with him to the kitchen. When his wife asked him what he was going to do with the rifle, he told her to "mind your own business," state police said.

Sitting on a davenport in the kitchen, he placed the muzzle of the rifle against his chest close to his heart, and the butt of the weapon on the linoleum floor. When he bent over to pull the trigger, police said he told them, the gun slipped and the bullet struck him in the arm instead of through the chest. His wife called a physican and the ambulance removed him to the hospital, where the bullet was to be removed today, police said.

Pryor and his wife have five children, the oldest eight and the youngest one-year old.

RAIN REDUCES ATTENDANCE AT B. S. CAMPOREE

FFA FILM TELLS STORY OF YOUTH AND FARM WORK

Mike Wertz, 17-year-old Biglerville R. D. farmer, who plays the part of the principal FFA student in the Future Farmers of America film which will have a premiere here Friday evening, is portraying a part that is almost a counterpart of his actual personal experience, it was learned today.

The Biglerville High School graduate in the picture portrays an FFA student whose father plans to abandon the farm. In the film the youngster succeeds in urging his father to keep the farm while he studies agriculture at school. Through the youngster's willingness to work and the training he receives at school the farm becomes prosperous and the family continues in agriculture.

Film Here Friday

In real life, as opposed to the movie, Mike Wertz as a freshman at Biglerville High School, just getting into FFA work, was told by his father that the family was going to sell the farm. The youngster asked if he could take over the 106-acre farm. He received permission and in addition his father, who had planned other work than farming for himself, told Mike he could have the farm when he was a junior in high school, if he could operate it successfully.

Today Wertz has 14 dairy cows, 1,200 chickens, and rasies corn, oats, wheat, hay and other crops so successfully that he plans to rent an additional 60 acres. In addition to operating the farm the youth also found time as an FFA member at Biglerville to win the Keystone Farmer degree last year.

Two showings of the new picture, filmed this past summer in the Gettysburg area, will be held Friday evening at the local high school. Admission to the first showing—at 8 o'clock—will be by ticket only. Admission to half of the auditorium will be without ticket at the second showing at 9:30 o'clock Friday night. There will not be any admission charge.

HEAR CHAPLAIN WORKING WITH PUERTO RICANS

Puerto Rican workers throng to the United States for the harvest season here because the period from July to December represents the "off-season" in employment in the tiny Caribbean Island, Rev. Fr. Richard Sullivan, Ephrata, in charge of work among the Puerto Ricans in the Harrisburg diocese, told the local Holy Name Society of St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church at its meeting Sunday evenign in the parochial school cafeteria.

The program in the cafeteria followed attendance at evening devotions held in the church. There five new members, John S. Dattilio, Francis Linn, Richard Groft, John McFerren and John Codori, Jr., were inducted into the society by the Rev. Fr. Anthony F. Kane, pastor of the church. Rev. Fr. Kane gave details of the history of the Holy Name Society since its establishment in the 14th century.

6000 In State

There are 6,000 Puerto Rican workers in Pennsylvania, 400 of them in Adams County at present, Father Sullivan told the group.

"Puerto Ricans are 90 percent Catholic," the Spanish-speaking priest said. "But there is great apathy toward going to church, as Catholics who have Puerto Ricans working on their farms have discovered.

"The reason is not difficult to find. Those who are brought here are farm workers, and in Puerto Rico they live back in the hills where there are few roads. As a result they have become accustomed to seldom attending mass, yet they have a great love for the Church.

"Because of overcrowded conditions in Puerto Rico hundreds of thousands of the natives have emigrated to the U. S. Somewhere between 400,000 and 700,000 live in New York alone.

"As citizens of the U.S. they have a right to come and go as they please between Puerto Rico and the mainland. This leads to some difficulties, because every Spanish speaking person in New York, no matter what South American country he comes from, claims to be a Puerto Rican. Since some of those making those claims are not the

"Dr. John Myers Radabaugh, who was a Gettysburg physician when Lincoln came here," Mr. Myers is quoted as saying, "told me that I would die if I didn't stop using so much sugar. Other physicians told me the same thing. They're all dead and gone, and I'm still using sugar in my coffee."

Mr. Myers will play the part of Dr. Radabaugh in the pageant. He will not be included in the general scenes at the Western Maryland station or the Wills House, but will ride in a carriage to the National Cemetery.

Enemy Suicide Troops Mowed Down Trying To Take Mountain

By GEORGE A. MCARTHUR

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Frenzied Chinese suicide troops with demolition charges tried to blow a hole in the Allied defenses on White Horse Mountain tonight. South Korean gunfire mowed them down short of their target.

They fell with their charges unexploded.

At the same time two Chinese platoons jumpeed off in a futile attack. The South Koreans drove them back, then launched an assault of their own. At last report they were pushing up the slope of one of three knobs the Reds captured earlier in the day.

As the savage battle for White Horse entered its eighth day the South Koreans were in firm control of the commanding crest.

Ready For Attack

The "stay! fight!" troops of the Republic of Korea 9th Division prepared bunkers and threw up entrenchments in confident anticipation of renewed Chinese assaults. A front-line officer said ROK positions were in better shape than they had been since the big battle started almost a week ago.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the U. S. Eighth Army, predicted the savage fighting for the vital high ground commanding the sprawling Chorwon Valley may taper off.

Van Fleet told AP correspondent Milo Farneti the Chorwon area has been a sensitive part of the front "but I don't think it will be any longer."

South Korean estimate the Reds have lost more than 10,000 killed or wounded. Elements of three Chinese divisions have been used in the bitter struggle.

To the east, a smaller but still bitter fight raged over possession of an outpost position. Chinese took the position in savage hand-to-hand battle last night. U.N. troops stormed back this morning.

Details were sketchy and conflicting but indicated the fighting was still going on at mid-day.

The air war kept pace with ground fighting. The Far East Air Forces said U.N. warplanes flew 1,412 sorties in virtual round-the-clock operations Sunday. This is the second highest 24-hour total of the Korean War.

MRS. SNYDER, 77, DIES ON SUNDAY

Mrs. Elizabeth Alice Snyder, 77, died at her home, 248 Chambersburg St., Sunday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock, of complications. She had been in failing health since January, 1951.

Mrs. Snyder was born in Adams County, a daughter of the late Samuel and Mary Staley Bucher. She had resided in Gettysburg for the last 28 years. Her husband, Walter A. Snyder, died on Jan. 15, 1937.

She was a member of Trinity Evangelical and Reformed Church, and was a Sunday School teacher and head of the Primary Department for many years. She was also a seamstress.

47 Thunderjets Make Longest, 2,500 Mile, Over-water Flight

AN AIR BASE, Northern Japan (AP)—Forty seven U. S. F84G Thunderjets flew here from Midway Island today in the longest over water flight ever made by single-engined jet fighter aircraft.

At the end of the lonesome 2,500 mile trip the flight leader, Col. Donald J. M. Blakeslee, declared: "With enough refueling you could fly a Thunderjet nonstop around the world."

The jets were timed at six hours and two minutes, an average speed of about 460 miles an hour.

Twenty-eight others are due in tomorrow. That will end the second mass flight of jets from the U. S. to Japan.

At least four of the pilots had only minutes of fuel left. The tanks of one jet ran dry as the pilot taxied down the runway.

One plane turned back because of engine trouble.

B29 tanker planes refueled the jets over the Pacific.

The jets, the 27th Fighter-Escort Wing from Texas, replace the 31st which has been on duty in the air defense of Japan three months. It made the first trans-Pacific mass jet flight in July.

The 27th's flight was much trickier than the first because of the new route which included the Midway to Japan jump.

Blakeslee, of Fairport Harbor, O. led his men from Bergstrom Field, Austin, Tex., on a flight of 7,800 miles with stops at Travis Air Force Base, Calif., Honolulu, and Midway. The total elapsed flying time was 18 hours and 12 minutes, an average speed of about 432 miles an hour. The planes left Texas Oct. 3.

An unannounced number of B36 giant bombers flew weather reconnaissance missions over the Pacific in support of the jet flight. The Air Force said the huge bombers flew at least to Midway Island. This is the farthest west B36s have ever been reported.

BULLETINS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today denied a hearing to atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, the husband and wife sentenced to die for giving American A-bomb secrets to Russia.

The denial lets stand unchanged the conviction and death sentence of the New York City couple—and puts them another step closer to execution in the electric chair in New York's Sing Sing Prison.

FATHER OF 5 IN HOSPITAL WITH RIFLE WOUND

Melvin C. Pryor, 37, Gettysburg R. 2, is in the Warner Hospital with a bullet wound in the upper left arm, the result of what state police of the Gettysburg substation said was an attempt on Pryor's part late Saturday night to take his own life.

Pryor, police said, had been employed up to about two weeks ago as a laborer for Johnson and March, York contractors. He had no automobile and had ridden back and forth, to and from his job with a nephew. Recently the nephew's car broke down, and he quit his York job to take a new one at the government's "Little Pentagon" project.

Police said Pryor worried about being unable to get the work. On Saturday he went to Highfield, Md., to visit his father, who brought him back to Emmitsburg. Pryor then walked five miles from Emmitsburg to his home near Natural Dam.

Gun Slips On Linoleum

He arrived about 11 p.m., went into the bedroom and picked up a .22 caliber rifle, which he took with him to the kitchen. When his wife asked him what he was going to do with the rifle, he told her to "mind your own business," state police said.

Sitting on a davenport in the kitchen, he placed the muzzle of the rifle against his chest close to his heart, and the butt of the weapon on the linoleum floor. When he bent over to pull the trigger, police said he told them, the gun slipped and the bullet struck him in the arm instead of through the chest. His wife called a physican and the ambulance removed him to the hospital, where the bullet was to be removed today, police said.

Pryor and his wife have five children, the oldest eight and the youngest one-year old.

RAIN REDUCES ATTENDANCE AT B. S. CAMPOREE

Rain cut attendance at the Indian Rock-Black Walnut Districts' Boy Scout Camporee at the E. Donald Scott farm, Gettysburg R. D., over the weekend to 52 scouts and leaders.

More than 300 had been expected for the event, but with a downpour of rain in the section Saturday morning, most troops abandoned plans to come. District officials expressed surprise that as many troops attended as did. In addition to five troops represented from Indian Rock district, two Black Walnut troops, 72 of Gettysburg and the Biglerville troop, were camped at the farm. Troop 78 of Gettysburg took part in the campfire program Saturday night but did not camp with the other scouts for the two days.

47 Thunderjets Make Longest, 2,500 Mile, Over-water Flight

AN AIR BASE, Northern Japan (AP)—Forty seven U. S. F84G Thunderjets flew here from Midway Island today in the longest over water flight ever made by single-engined jet fighter aircraft.

At the end of the lonesome 2,500 mile trip the flight leader, Col. Donald J. M. Blakeslee, declared: "With enough refueling you could fly a Thunderjet nonstop around the world."

The jets were timed at six hours and two minutes, an average speed of about 460 miles an hour.

Twenty-eight others are due in tomorrow. That will end the second mass flight of jets from the U. S. to Japan.

At least four of the pilots had only minutes of fuel left. The tanks of one jet ran dry as the pilot taxied down the runway.

One plane turned back because of engine trouble.

B29 tanker planes refueled the jets over the Pacific.

The jets, the 27th Fighter-Escort Wing from Texas, replace the 31st which has been on duty in the air defense of Japan three months. It made the first trans-Pacific mass jet flight in July.

The 27th's flight was much trickier than the first because of the new route which included the Midway to Japan jump.

Blakeslee, of Fairport Harbor, O. led his men from Bergstrom Field, Austin, Tex., on a flight of 7,800 miles with stops at Travis Air Force Base, Calif., Honolulu, and Midway. The total elapsed flying time was 18 hours and 12 minutes, an average speed of about 432 miles an hour. The planes left Texas Oct. 3.

An unannounced number of B36 giant bombers flew weather reconnaissance missions over the Pacific in support of the jet flight. The Air Force said the huge bombers flew at least to Midway Island. This is the farthest west B36s have ever been reported.

Mike Wertz, 17-year-old Biglerville R. D. farmer, who plays the part of the principal FFA student in the Future Farmers of America film which will have a premiere here Friday evening, is portraying a part that is almost a counterpart of his actual personal experience, it was learned today.

The Biglerville High School graduate in the picture portrays an FFA student whose father plans to abandon the farm. In the gim the youngster succeeds in urging his father to keep the farm while he studies agriculture at school. Through the youngster's willingness to work and the training he receives at school the farm becomes prosperous and the family continues in agriculture.

Film Here Friday

In real life, as opposed to the movie, Mike Wertz as a freshman at Biglerville High School, just getting into FFA work, was told by his father that the family was going to sell the farm. The youngster asked if he could take over the 106-acre farm. He received permission and in addition his father, who had planned other work than farming for himself, told Mike he could have the farm when he was a junior in high school, if he could operate it successfully.

Today Wertz has 14 dairy cows, 1,200 chickens, and rasies corn, oats, wheat, hay and other crops so successfully that he plans to rent an additional 60 acres. In addition to operating the farm the youth also found time as an FFA member at Biglerville to win the Keystone Farmer degree last year.

Two showings of the new picture, filmed this past summer in the Gettysburg area, will be held Friday evening at the local high school. Admission to the first showing—at 8 o'clock—will be by ticket only. Admission to half of the auditorium will be without ticket at the second showing at 9:30 o'clock Friday night. There will not be any admission charge.

HEAR CHAPLAIN WORKING WITH PUERTO RICANS

Puerto Rican workers throng to the United States for the harvest season here because the period from July to December represents the "off-season" in employment in the tiny Caribbean Island, Rev. Fr. Richard Sullivan, Ephrata, in charge of work among the Puerto Ricans in the Harrisburg diocese, told the local Holy Name Society of St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church at its meeting Sunday evenign in the parochial school cafeteria.

The program in the cafeteria followed attendance at evening devotions held in the church. There five new members, John S. Dattilio, Francis Linn, Richard Groft, John McFerren and John Codori, Jr., were inducted into the society by the Rev. Fr. Anthony F. Kane, pastor of the church. Rev. Fr. Kane gave details of the history of the Holy Name Society since its establishment in the 14th century.

6000 In State

There are 6,000 Puerto Rican workers in Pennsylvania, 400 of them in Adams County at present, Father Sullivan told the group.

"Puerto Ricans are 90 percent Catholic," the Spanish-speaking priest said. "But there is great apathy toward going to church, as Catholics who have Puerto Ricans working on their farms have discovered.

"The reason is not difficult to find. Those who are brought here are farm workers, and in Puerto Rico they live back in the hills where there are few roads. As a result they have become accustomed to seldom attending mass, yet they have a great love for the Church.

"Because of overcrowded conditions in Puerto Rico hundreds of thousands of the natives have emigrated to the U. S. Somewhere between 400,000 and 700,000 live in New York alone.

"As citizens of the U.S. they have a right to come and go as they please between Puerto Rico and the mainland. This leads to some difficulties, because every Spanish speaking person in New York, no matter what South American country he comes from, claims to be a Puerto Rican. Since some of those making those claims are not the

Charles I. Raffensperger, Steinwehr Ave., assistant county superintendent of schools, is in a critical condition at the Warner Hospital today.

He suffered a stroke Saturday evening about 8 o'clock while seated in a chair at his home. He was removed to the Warner Hospital by ambulance. His physician said Mr. Raffensperger's right side is paralyzed.

The 56-year-old educator has been expected to become county superintendent of schools within less than a year upon the contemplated retirement of Superintendent J. Floyd Slaybaugh, according to an announcement made by Mr. Slaybaugh when he was re-elected for another term several years ago.

Busy With Jointures

During his service here as assistant county superintendent Mr. Raffensperger has been instrumental in the task of setting up most of the jointures into which the county school system has been divided during the past several years. During the last several months he has been active in assisting joint districts throughout the county in the multitude of preparations in connection with proposed school building programs in the jointures.

In addition he has been serving as superintendent of the St. James Lutheran Sunday School and is active in a number of other civic and fraternal affairs. Enemy Suicide Troops Mowed Down Trying To Take Mountain

By GEORGE A. MCARTHUR

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Frenzied Chinese suicide troops with demolition charges tried to blow a hole in the Allied defenses on White Horse Mountain tonight. South Korean gunfire mowed them down short of their target.

They fell with their charges unexploded.

At the same time two Chinese platoons jumpeed off in a futile attack. The South Koreans drove them back, then launched an assault of their own. At last report they were pushing up the slope of one of three knobs the Reds captured earlier in the day.

As the savage battle for White Horse entered its eighth day the South Koreans were in firm control of the commanding crest.

Ready For Attack

The "stay! fight!" troops of the Republic of Korea 9th Division prepared bunkers and threw up entrenchments in confident anticipation of renewed Chinese assaults. A front-line officer said ROK positions were in better shape than they had been since the big battle started almost a week ago.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the U. S. Eighth Army, predicted the savage fighting for the vital high ground commanding the sprawling Chorwon Valley may taper off.

Van Fleet told AP correspondent Milo Farneti the Chorwon area has been a sensitive part of the front "but I don't think it will be any longer."

South Koreans estimate the Reds have lost more than 10,000 killed or wounded. Elements of three Chinese divisions have been used in the bitter struggle.

The fighting on and around White Horse was still the main action along the 155-mile battlefront.

To the east, a smaller but still bitter fight raged over possession of an outpost position. Chinese took the position in savage hand-to-hand battle last night. U.N. troops stormed back this morning.

Details were sketchy and conflicting but indicated the fighting was still going on at mid-day.

The air war kept pace with ground fighting. The Far East Air Forces said U.N. warplanes flew 1,412 sorties in virtual round-the-clock operations Sunday. This is the second highest 24-hour total of the Korean War.

MRS. SNYDER, 77, DIES ON SUNDAY

Mrs. Elizabeth Alice Snyder, 77, died at her home, 248 Chambersburg St., Sunday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock, of complications. She had been in failing health since January, 1951.

Mrs. Snyder was born in Adams County, a daughter of the late Samuel and Mary Staley Bucher. She had resided in Gettysburg for the last 28 years. Her husband, Walter A. Snyder, died on Jan. 15, 1937.

She was a member of Trinity Evangelical and Reformed Church, and was a Sunday School teacher and head of the Primary Department for many years. She was also a seamstress.

BULLETINS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today denied a hearing to atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, the husband and wife sentenced to die for giving American A-bomb secrets to Russia.

The denial lets stand unchanged the conviction and death sentence of the New York City couple—and puts them another step closer to execution in the electric chair in New York's Sing Sing Prison.

EXPECT LEWIS TO NAME CHOICE FOR PRESIDENT

By NORMAN WALKER

CINCINNATI (AP)—John L. Lewis was expected to make known his stand on the presidential political race today as sessions of the 41st United Mine Workers Convention were resumed.

A slowly growing strike of coal miners and politics were the chief subjects ticketed for comment by the union's president before convention adjournment next Wednesday.

The strike started Friday when several hundred miners at a Peabody Coal Co. mine near Harrisburg, Ill., walked out. Other Peabody mines in Illinois and Indiana were due to join the walkout today, boosting to about 5,000 the number of idle.

WSB Still Considering

The men refused to work when given paychecks lacking the $1.90 a day pay raise Lewis recently negotiated for the miners. Employeers throughout the soft coal industry have taken the position that, although they are ready and willing to pay the higher wages, they may not do so until the government approves the pay raise.

The Wage Stabilization Board in Washington is considering the increase, which brings the basic miner's wage to $18.25 a day, but probably won't decide for several days yet whether the increase is inflationary or not.

The increase was effective Oct. 1 and it seemed clear more and more miners will join the strike when their paychecks appear without the added money. However, some payrolls won't be due for at least 10 days from now, making a complete strike unlikely for a while.

It was taken for granted by union delegates that a full industry-wide strike could be expected if the WSB turns thumbs down on the pay raise, or approves only part of it.

Machine-gun Blasts Quell 4th New Jersey Prison Riot

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—About 20 knife-wielding convicts barricaded themselves in a wing of Trenton State Prison last night in a two-hour riot that was quelled by machine-gun blasts.

Two prisoners were injured by ricocheting bullets fired over the rioters' heads by correction officers who smashed through a barricade of stools, tables and wooden scaffolding.

Three guards had been held as hostages, but were rescued unharmed in this fourth major outbreak in the prison this year.

Extremely Desperate

The rebel convicts, described as "extremely desperate" long-termers, holed themselves up in Wing No. 7 upon their return from their evening meal, and, after locking 300 fellow inmates in another section, tried sawing their way to freedom, one of the hostages said. But they gave up in their escape attempt when their makeshift hacksaws failed them.

Shouting defiance to prison officials, the rebellious band proceeded to break up portions of the wing. But a preliminary examination of the cell block showed that there was no serious damage.

The door to the wing was forced partially open by correction officers, and one of them managed to squirm through. He was covered by submachine-gun fire. Other guards followed and forced their way up each of the five tiers of cells.

Ended In Two Hours

Correction officers gained control of the wing, and the overhead blasts of machine-gun fire ended the rebellion two hours after it started. The rioters were placed in segregation cells.

Acting Warden Lloyd W. McCorkle said the convicts were trying "to gain public sympathy for the men in segregation as a result of the previous riots." Reports also circulated that the convicts rioted in a demand for better living conditions, including television.

One of the wounded convicts was reported in serious condition in the prison hospital. He was shot in the chest. The other received only a superficial wound in the hand, prison officials said.

Pennsylvania
Great in 1776
Greater in 1952

We live in a great state. Let's boost and be proud of our state and community.

. . . so proudly we hail—

Pennsylvania, where the Liberty Bell first proclaimed freedom, is busily engaged today in a job no other state can do in providing sinews of strength for the free world. First in vital mineral output, leader in production for 56 industries, plentifully supplied with economical electric power and outstanding in agriculture, Pennsylvania is literally the "Keystone of the Nation" just as it was in 1776 when the Declaration of Independence was proclaimed within its boundaries. One can well be proud to be a Pennsylvanian, to know that our Commonwealth is ready, willing and able to meet the responsibilities and obligations of democracy.

STATE BUILDS 2,365 MILES OF IMPROVED ROADS

Pennsylvanians, who enjoy traveling on the state's 41,065-mile highway system—largest in the world—gained 2,365 miles of improved highways during the first complete fiscal year of Governor John S. Fine's administration.

The mileage improvements are equivalent to a new roadway extending from Philadelphia to Florida and another separate highway from Florida back to Philadelphia.

The expenditures for these improvements, which included new construction, reconstruction, resurfacing and widening as well as stabilization of 1,242 miles on the farm-to-market road system, were $103,085,000 from the Motor License Fund alone, plus $14,164,000 in State Highway and Bridge Authority funds for a total of $117,249,000.

E. L. Schmidt, secretary of highways, in announcing the data said the construction expenditure would have been highest in history had not shortages in steel and other critical materials curtailed expenditures.

All portions of the state highway system profited by the expenditures. The improvements included reconstruction of several principal arteries on the main state highway system, reconstruction of many of the more important routes on the secondary state highway system, resurfacing of many miles on both systems where this treatment will preserve and prolong the usefulness of the facility for many years, reconstruction and resurfacing of existing streets in boroughs and cities and construction of all-weather surfaces on farm-to-market roads.

In addition, continued progress was made in the construction of controlled access highways in and adjacent to metropolitan and urban areas to eliminate serious traffic bottlenecks.

Meanwhile maintenance work, which includes snow removal, cindering of icy roads and streets, surface treatment and general repair operations, was continued at a level that ranks Pennsylvania among the highest in the nation in this classification. This work cost a total of $31,032,000, an increase of about 3 per cent over the previous year. But the 3 per cent increase is considerably less than the average increased cost of labor, materials and equipment during the period, Mr. Schmidt explained.

The remainder of the total amount expended from Motor Li-

best persons in the world, the Puerto Rican gets an undeserved black mark against him in the police records.

To Improve Cemetery

"The situation in Puerto Rico has shown great improvement over the past seventy years. The government is anxious to improve the lot of the people, and it is striving to secure industry to take up the slack in the country's economy. It is succeeding to a large extent. Incidentally the war years, when Puerto Richan rum sold widely on the markets here, helped the government greatly. From the tax on the rum it has been able to build many roads and housing developments.

"As of this summer Puerto Rico became a free state tied to the U. S. in a sort of commonwealth arrangement."

President Leo McDermitt appointed a committee comprising A. B. Martin, Wilbur Redding, Charles Miller, Charles Holtz, Fred Faber, Jr., and himself to arrange plans for grading the Catholic Cemetery here. Reports at the meeting showed that the society members had cleared an adjoining section of land and that the ground is now ready for fill. It was announced that the regional Holy Name Union meeting, scheduled to be held October 19 at York, has been postponed to October 26. The session will be held at St. Patrick's Church, York.

Had it not been for the censor of Venice, where in 1851 Verdi's newest work was to have its premiere, the now famous opera "Rigoletto," which will be presented on the stage of the Majestic Theatre Thursday evennig by the London Opera Company and its own symphony orchestra, might have a French name and a French setting. It has been said that the composer, at the age of 37, wrote and scored "Rigoletto" in six weeks, but some authorities believe that the music was written earlier. At any rate in 1850, he completed the opera based on the text which Piave had created from Victor Hugo's play, "Le Roi s'Amuse."

The story was laid in the court of Francis I of France and although the Paris premiere of the play in 1832 almost precipitated a revolution, Piaxe assured Verdi that an opera based on this story would cause no difficulty. However, when arrangements for the premiere in Venice were being made, the censor of that city forbad its presentation, at least in its original form. So the scene was moved from France to the ducal court of Mantua. The king became a duke, the beautiful Blanche became Gilda and Saltabadil was turned into Rigoletto, whose name became the title of the opera. This is the first time an opera company has ever played here.

Reserved seats are available at the theatre.

STEVENSON TO DEAL HARSHLY ON CORRUPTION IF HE'S ELECTED

By JACK BELL

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson promised today to deal "ruthlessly" with corruption in government if he is elected president.

The Illinois governor brought his campaign into politically doubtful Florida today after New Orleans recorded mixed reaction last night to his firm stand for civil rights legislation and against giving the states title to the oil-rich submerged coastal lands.

Barging into the tough issues Republicans have raised against him, the Democratic presidential nominee likened Miami's cleanup action in gambling scandals to steps he had taken in Illinois. He promised to "follow the same pattern of action in Washington," if he wins on Nov. 4.

Touched By Scandal

"You have been touched by scandals bred by an unsavory alliance between a national criminal syndicate and the semi-legitimate operators who cluster around the fringes of the entertainment business," Stevenson said in a talk prepared for a party rally at Bay Front Park.

"But I was pleased to see that you have learned the practical lesson taught me in my time as governor of Illinois—that corruption will not wait for leisurely attention.

"It must be attacked by those in authority and it must be ruthlessly rooted out before it has a chance to fester and spread through the whole of our political system."

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, the Republican presidential nominee, has made alleged corruption in government one of his chief talking points in the campaign. Other Republicans have aimed barbs at Stevenson for disclosures that horsemeat was sold as beef in Illinois and that state tax stamps were counterfeited.

Stevenson said he knew that honest criticism could be made of the Democratic national administration.

"I claim that our Democratic leaders are and have been pretty good human beings—but I make no claim to infallibility on their behalf."

Contrast With Depression

As he did in campaigning in Oklahoma and Louisiana yesterday, the Illinois governor emphasized what he said were Democratic contributions to the country's prosperity. He called attention to the difference between conditions now and in the depression of 20 years ago when the Republicans were in power.

This approach, linked with his advocacy of civil rights and his opposition to state ownership of the submerged coastal lands left Democrats in Louisiana wondering if he had helped or hurt his chances of obtaining that state's 10 electoral votes. Louisiana gave its 10 votes to the States Rights ticket in 1948.

Florida has eight electoral votes and Eisenhower has been bidding strongly to break into the South by carrying that state.

In Nashville Tonight

The core of Stevenson's argument was that despite Democratic mistakes the voter should make his decision by measuring the world as he knows it today against what it was 20 years ago.

After a scheduled midafternoon appearance in Tampa, Stevenson planned a major talk in Nashville, Tenn., tonight before flying back to his headquarters at Springfield, Ill.

The Democratic nominee gave his New Orleans listeners the kind of a speech they didn't especially want to hear.

Mustered Weak Cheer

In an area where the civil rights issue is politically touchy, he said flatly he stands on the Democratic platform's declaration for the elimination of racial discrimination and for a change in the Senate rules which have allowed filibusters to kill civil rights bills.

The crowd mustered only a weak cheer for this statement.

Stevenson's own entourage encountered a civil rights problem when James Hicks, Negro reporter for the Afro-American newspapers in New York, Newark, Philadelphia, Washington and Richmond, Va., quit the accompanying press corps when he was denied a room at the Roosevelt Hotel where other reporters stayed.

William Flanagan, Stevenson's information director, said the nominee knew nothing about the incident. He reminded reporters that Stevenson had nothing to do with operation of the hotel.

Frank B. Ellis, Democratic national committeeman for Louisiana, disclaimed any responsibility for the incident.

Doesn't Blame Stevenson

Hicks said he didn't blame Stevenson, adding that he plans to vote for the Democratic nominee because he believes the Illinois governor would make progress toward eliminating such situations in the future.

The Negro reporter said when he was traveling with Eisenhower he had been given accommodations at a Miami, Fla., hotel without question.

Albright Stops Bullets 7-0 On First Quarter Aerial

A sensational catch of a 23-yard pass by Bruce Eickhoff, 6-3 Albright end, with four Bullet defenders swarming over him with 40 seconds of play remaining in the first quarter gave Albright a 7-0 victory over the Gettysburg College gridders here Saturday afternoon before about 3,500 fans to bring to an end a seven-game winning streak for the Bullets.

The spot for the winning pass by Bob Carney was set up on one of the many penalties which hurt the Bullets' chances for victory. Shortly before the TD-play Earl Yost had intercepted an Albright aerial on the Bullets' 28 but the officials ruled interference on the play and Albright was given a first down on the 20. Tenley picked up three yards on a line plunge and then Sudol lost a yard. The Lions were set back 5 yards for offsides and then the fatal play took place. Tony D'Apolito booted the extra point.

From that time on it was strictly a battle between two strong defensive units as neither team could manufacture any sustained drive.

End Scoring Streak

A 40-game scoring streak of Gettysburg which extended back to 1947 came to an end when the Bullets failed to hit pay dirt.

The game was a dog fight the whole way although the Lions kept play pretty much confined to Gettysburg territory, thanks to a flock of penalties and four fumbles against the Bullets.

Sudol took Ronnie Miller's opening kickoff and returned from his 12 to the 31. D'Apolito and Tenley picked up a first down on the Albright 42 and then Sudol got away for 28 yards around right end to put the ball on the Gettysburg 30. The Bullets braced and, after a 15-yard penalty against the Lions for illegal use of the hands, lost the ball on downs on the Gettysburg 30.

Ward was soon forced to punt after which Tenley and Sudol pounded out a first down on the Gettysburg 44. On the next play D'Apolito fumbled and Sam Mowery recovered for Gettysourg on the Bullets' 39.

Penalty Hurts

Albright's defensive unit, which turned in a stellar performance, held and Ward punted to the Lions' 40. Tenley, D'Apolito and Sudol picked up a first down on the Gettysburg 49.

Tenley was halted on the next play but D'Apolito picked up three yards at right end. On the next play Earl Yost intercepted a pass by D'Apolito on the Gettysburg 28 but the officials ruled interference and Albright took over on the 20 from where they moved for the score.

Early in the second period, after an exchange of punts and a 15-yard clipping penalty had kept Gettysburg deep in its own territory, the Battlefield boys took over on their own 16 via a punt by Sudol.

Halted By Fumble

Bob Eppleman, an outstanding ground gainer for the Bullets tthroughout, raced 29 yards to Gettysburg's 45 on a sweep around right end. Bill Yocum smacked the line for two yards and the Joe Ujobai went off right tackle for a first down on the Albright 45. Eppleman picked up a yard before Walt Hemberger, on an end around, reacheed the 35. However, on the next try Fred Strahlendorf recovered Eppleman's fumble for the Lions on the 30.

Albright could get no where and Sudol punted to Mowery, who fumbled and when Fred Hess recovered for the Red and White on the Bullets' 41, Gettysburg was again in trouble.

On two plays D'Apolito and Carney picked up a first down on the 29. Here the Bullets braced and Albright's threat ended when Yost intercepted Carney's pass in the end zone and raced out to the 15.

Two plays later Jack Peiffer fell on Bill Yocum's fumble to give the Lions the ball on the Gettysburg 28. Two smashes by Carney were good for five yards and then Jim Megee intercepted Carney's pass on the 20. Eppleman ran for a first down on the 40 as the half ended.

Bullets Stop Threat

Albright missed another opportunity early in the third period when Ward's fumble was recovered by Al Weidman on the Gettysburg 23 shortly after the last half got underway. Three Lion aerials fell incomplete as the Bullets took over on the 21.

Late in the third frame Tenley took Ward's punt on the Albright 44. After Bill Ewing broke through to toss DePaul on the Lion 30, Sudol dropped back t opunt. Howard Pettit, G-Burg center, broke through to block and recover the pigskin on Albright's 30.

The tight Lion defense was equal to the occasion and took over on the 35 after a Bullet pass was good but for a 5-yard loss on the last down.

After about five minutes of the final period Pettit recovered a fumble by D'Apolito on the Albright 42 but once again the Bullet attack could not get underway and Ward soon kicked out on the Albright 26.

From that stage on the game was played mostly in midfield.

Berky Ward, Bullet passing star, was in trouble throughout the entire afternoon as the Albright defensive forward wall broke through to hurry all of his passes and frequently smothered him for losses before he got the ball away.

Next Saturday the Bullets meet Lehigh at Bethlehem.

ALL PA. CHAMPS BEATEN OR TIED

HARRISBURG (AP)—With less than half the 1952 schoolboy grid campaign written into history every defending champion of Pennsylvania's six major conferences has been defeated or tied.

And, last year's title winners in five other leagues have been unable to keep their records perfectly clean. Only a single conference leader of 1951, Lewistown of the Central Counties, has managed to win all its '52 games.

Week-end play saw two strong defending titlists, one in the west, the other in the east, take it on the chin from teams that had already lost a game.

In the 36-team Class AA section of the Pittsburgh area WPIAL, the Farrell Steelers were beaten, 25-24, by Ambridge. Ambridge had already been removed from the list of contenders by losing to Beaver Falls.

The defending champion of the 53-member East Penn conference, Swoyersville, was unable to maintain a 13-game all-winning skein. A fourth-period touchdown gave once-beaten Larksville a 6-6 tie.

Other defending champs of major circuits who had lost or tied before are Williamsport (Central Penn), Conemaugh Township (Western), Meadville (Section II) and Gettysburg (South Penn).

MICHIGAN STATE OWNS LONGEST WINNING STREAK

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — With the unceremonious demise of Princeton, the mighty Spartans from Michigan State today owned the longest winning streak in college football —18 games—and they show no signs of letting up there.

Maryland and Georgia Tech each have gone through 18 games without a defeat, but they've been tied.

Michigan State still has six games to play so it's rather early to be predicting another undefeated season for them, but if they perform in the manner they did Saturday in hanging a 48-6 pasting on Texas A and M, their future opponents are not going to look to the Spartan games with any enthusiasm.

Irish Looked Bad

State still has to meet, in order, Syracuse, Penn State, Purdue, Indiana, Notre Dame and Marquette.

Until it took a 22-19 beating from Pitt, Notre Dame probably would have been regarded as a threat to Biggie Munn's lads, who next year start operations in the Big Ten. But the Irish looked bad against the Panthers.

Maryland and Georgia Tech continue to roll along, and neither should be pressed to any great extent this week against, respectively, Navy and Auburn. The Terps polished off Georgia, 37-0, and Tech topped Tulane, 14-0, Saturday.

California Seems Sure

California, which has piled up a staggering 152 points in four games, seems assured of winning the Pacific Coast Conference title, although it still must get past Southern California and UCLA.

Wisconsin, the class of the Big Ten, and No. 1 team in the country in last week's AP poll, was the victim of the biggest upset of the season Saturday. Ohio State soundly pasted the Badgers, 23-14.

That made it a brand new race in the Big Ten, although there still is nothing to prevent Wisconsin from winning it. On paper, the Badgers still can field the most potent squad in the loop. However, as of today, Purdue, which trounced Iowa, 41-14, in its last outing, stands at the head of the class with a 2-0 league record.

Not A Surprise

Princeton's 13-7 defeat at the hands of Penn, strangely, was not a surprise. The Quakers were known to be powerful while Princeton, without the services of the graduated Dick Kazmaier, was an unknown quantity. Penn now should have no trouble sweeping to the league crown, held the last two years by the Tigers.

The Kansas-Oklahoma-Nebraska battle for the big Seven probably ended Saturday when Nebraska's hard luck kid, Bobby Reynolds, was hurt during the Cornhuskers' 27-14 triumph oveer Kansas State. This should narrow the race down to Oklahoma and Kansas, who meet head on this week.

Both warmed up to their tasks Saturday, the Sooners manhandling Texas, 49-20, and Kansas annihilating Iowa State, 43-0.

In the traditionally mixed up Southwest Conference, things are traditionally mixed up. There isn't an undefeated team in the loop, which leaves things right back where they were in the beginning of the season, with defending champion Texas Christian still the choice by default.

The Horned Frogs go against Texas A and M this week. The conference goes into full-scale operations Saturday, so the picture should be cleared somewhat in a week or two.

In the Rocky Mountain Conference, the eventual champion probably will be decided this week when Idaho State and Colorado State, the two top powers, tangle at Pocatello. Houston is the surprise leader in the Missouri Valley, after clobbering the defending champion University of Tulsa, 33-7.

Georgia Tech might get a tussle from Alabama and Tennessee for the Southeastern loop title, while Duke heads the Southern Conference, although Virginia remains unbeaten, too. The pair tangle in two weeks.

NCAA GROUPS CONFER ON TV

CHICAGO (AP) — With a recent Notre Dame blast at collegiate television policies still resounding, two committees of the NCAA met today to work over TV and other plans for the future.

A four-day general policy going-over was in prospect. Besides the television problem, the committees planned to take up such things as post-season competition and alleged nonobservance of NCAA rules by at least three of its members.

Names of the schools involved in the reported infractions have not been made public.

The committees on hand are the NCAA Executive Committee and the NCAA Council. The overall purpose of the meetings is to shape varius reports for final action by the NCAA Convention in January.

LASALLE DEALS DELONE FOURTH SETBACK 13-7

Delone Catholic dropped its fourth decision in five starts when it lost a hard fought 13-7 verdict to the LaSalle Catholic High gridders of Cumberland, Md., Sunday afternoon at McSherrystown.

LaSalle capitalized on an intercepted pass and a recovered fumble to tally both of its touchdowns.

With less than a minute remaining in the first half the Explorers halted a Delone threat when Denny Shuck intercepted a pass thrown by Wib Noel.

Marty Mullaney then faded back and tossed a pass to Paul Ackerman which was good for a 79-yard scoring play. Kegg added the point via a placement kick.

Fumble Proves Costly

In the third period LaSalle recovered a Squire fumble on Delone's 28-yard line. It took four plays for the score, Bob Christ going over from the 12.

Next Sunday Delone meets York Catholic on the latter's field.

GIANTS SPANK BROWNS 17 TO 9; CLING TO LEAD

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Giants and the San Francisco 49ers boasting the only unblemished records in the National Football League, ranked as the sole leaders of their respective divisions today.

The Giants moved into undisputed possession of first place in the American Conference by defeating the Cleveland Browns, 17-9, yesterday, while the 49ers were thwarting their most formidable challengers, the Detroit Lions, 28-0. The victors now own identical 3-0 slates.

The Giants' stubborn defense, bulwarked by the stellar line play of Arnie Weinmeister and Bill Albright, completely stifled the Cleveland ground game. The Browns only could gain 21 yards rushing, although they picked up 236 yards passing.

Three field goals by Lou Groza, one a 52-year-effort, kept the forces of Coach Paul Brown in contention as Cleveland led, 9-7, at the end of three periods. The Browns' field goal specialist sustained a head injury during the game and said afterward that he could not remember any of his kicks.

Intercept Pass

The Giants bolted ahead in the final stanza on Ray Poole's 25-yard field goal and then they iced the contest when Tom Landry intercepted an Otto Graham aerial and pranced 30 yards for the decisive tally.

San Francisco's almost impregnable defense held the Lions to a net gain of 65 yards. Elusive Hugh McElhenny, the rookie from Washington, and rugged veteran Joe Perry compiled most of the ground gaining yardage for the bruising 49ers.

Sparked by quarterback Bob Williams, the Chicago Bears climbed into second place in the National conference by trouncing the winless Dallas Texans, 38-20. Williams saw action in only the first half as he completed 13 out of 15 passes, three of them for touchdowns.

The Philadelphia Eagles overcame an eight-point deficit in the last nine minutes of play to administer a 26-21 setback to the Pittsburgh Steelers, who suffered their third straight loss. The magic toe of Philadelphia's Bob Walston accounted for four field goals.

The combined efforts of Billy Cross' running and Charley Trippi's passing gave the Chicago Cardinals a 17-6 conquest of the Washington Redskins. Trippi tallied the first touchdown in the opening stanza on a two-yard plunge after his tosses had set up the score. The 155-pound Cross romped 15 yards into pay dirt with 30 seconds to play in the game.

A 24-point barrage in the fourth quarter gave the defending champion Los Angeles Rams an exciting 30-28 victory over the Green Bay Packers. Besides booting three field goals, quarterback Bob Waterfield also engineered the Rams' 92-yard game-winning drive in the final two minutes of play. Waterfield's trio of three-pointers gave him a new league career record of 52.

STATE BUILDS

cense and State Highway and Bridge Authority funds, during the fiscal year includes $10,578,000 for local roads and streets, $16,326,000 for administration, engineering, overhead, etc., and $4,905,000 for special work and purchase of land, buildings and equipment.

As a result of an appropriation increase by the last Legislature to local levels of government to $12,000,000 per annum over the former $10,000,000. These communities this year will receive the largest sum on record. These funds are allocated to the individual cities, boroughs and townships on a ratio of 60 per cent mileage and 40 per cent population. An addtional $3,000,000 was made available for construction of roads and streets when matched equally by the local subdivisions from local taxes.

$12 Million More For Roads

Another one-half cent per gallon gasoline tax allocated to the counties of Pennsylvania now amounts to $12,000,000 per year which must also be expended for local road and street construction and maintenance. These sums comprise $27,000,000 per year of state taxes available to local communities for highway purposes.

Percentage-wise costs are:

Construction, 65.1 per cent; maintenance, 17.2 per cent; local governments, 5.9 per cent, while administration and engineering expenses were 9.0 per cent of total expenditures. Special work consumed 1.3 per cent and land and buildings 1.5 per cent.

Newest Safety Factors

The design of Pennsylvania's modern highways and streets now includes every known safety factor to insure maximum protection for the motorist. Larger and easier reading signs of improved reflectorizing material are replacing smaller and less effective signs on the principal highways.

The Highway Department cooperates with the Highway Safety Bureau of the Department of Revenue and the Pennsylvania State Police in educational and enforcement features of safer highways. These combined with modern engineering have won for Pennsylvania the top position in highway safety.

Likewise, within the department, safety precautions have won the National Safety Council's "Award of Honor."

Rising costs have been a troublesome factor in operation of the Highway Department, Secretary of Highways Schmidt reported.

Need Wide Roads

The weight and volume of present day traffic on the more important highways demand wider traffic lanes and multiple lanes to overcome existing congestion. In the 1930's a good two-lane highway could be constructed for $50,000 per mile. Today the cost in $200,000. A four-lane divided highway costs from $300,000 per mile in easy construction areas to a million dollars per mile in the more difficult sections of Pennsylvania.

"The roads of the 1920's and 1930's, like any other structure built by man, are wearing out," Mr. Schmidt continued. "Traffic has increased 50 per cent since 1940. Truck traffic has doubled during the same period.

"Owners and operators of heavy commercial vehicles are clamoring constantly for construction of highways which will accommodate ever-increasing loads.

"The highway engineer can design and build these roads but only to a limited extent with the funds available.

Asks U. S. To Withdraw

"The highway administrator and engineer has met the responsibility of maintaining old roads which were never built for the weights they are carrying. It is a smiple problem to increase the size and weight of a vehicle but inherent road strength can only be increased materially by complete reconstruction.

"More funds are necessary if the immediate and widespread needs of the State Highway system are to be met in the near future.

"If the Federal Government would withdraw from the field of gasoline taxation, with the present two cent per gallon Federal tax passing to the state for highway construction, about $24,000,000 more annually would be available for Pennsylvania's highways and without added costs to Pennsylvania's motorists," Mr. Schmidt concluded.

Pennsylvania Week

STATE BUILDS 2,365 MILES OF IMPROVED ROADS

Pennsylvanians, who enjoy traveling on the state's 41,065-mile highway system—largest in the world—gained 2,365 miles of improved highways during the first complete fiscal year of Governor John S. Fine's administration.

The mileage improvements are equivalent to a new roadway extending from Philadelphia to Florida and another separate highway from Florida back to Philadelphia.

The expenditures for these improvements, which included new construction, reconstruction, resurfacing and widening as well as stabilization of 1,242 miles on the farm-to-market road system, were $103,085,000 from the Motor License Fund alone, plus $14,164,000 in State Highway and Bridge Authority funds for a total of $117,249,000.

E. L. Schmidt, secretary of highways, in announcing the data said the construction expenditure would have been highest in history had not shortages in steel and other critical materials curtailed expenditures.

All portions of the state highway system profited by the expenditures. The improvements included reconstruction of several principal arteries on the main state highway system, reconstruction of many of the more important routes on the secondary state highway system, resurfacing of many miles on both systems where this treatment will preserve and prolong the usefulness of the facility for many years, reconstruction and resurfacing of existing streets in boroughs and cities and construction of all-weather surfaces on farm-to-market roads.

In addition, continued progress was made in the construction of controlled access highways in and adjacent to metropolitan and urban areas to eliminate serious traffic bottlenecks.

Meanwhile maintenance work, which includes snow removal, cindering of icy roads and streets, surface treatment and general repair operations, was continued at a level that ranks Pennsylvania among the highest in the nation in this classification. This work cost a total of $31,032,000, an increase of about 3 per cent over the previous year. But the 3 per cent increase is considerably less than the average increased cost of labor, materials and equipment during the period, Mr. Schmidt explained.

To Improve Cemetery

"The situation in Puerto Rico has shown great improvement over the past seventy years. The government is anxious to improve the lot of the people, and it is striving to secure industry to take up the slack in the country's economy. It is succeeding to a large extent. Incidentally the war years, when Puerto Richan rum sold widely on the markets here, helped the government greatly. From the tax on the rum it has been able to build many roads and housing developments.

"As of this summer Puerto Rico became a free state tied to the U. S. in a sort of commonwealth arrangement."

President Leo McDermitt appointed a committee comprising A. B. Martin, Wilbur Redding, Charles Miller, Charles Holtz, Fred Faber, Jr., and himself to arrange plans for grading the Catholic Cemetery here. Reports at the meeting showed that the society members had cleared an adjoining section of land and that the ground is now ready for fill. It was announced that the regional Holy Name Union meeting, scheduled to be held October 19 at York, has been postponed to October 26. The session will be held at St. Patrick's Church, York.

Had it not been for the censor of Venice, where in 1851 Verdi's newest work was to have its premiere, the now famous opera "Rigoletto," which will be presented on the stage of the Majestic Theatre Thursday evennig by the London Opera Company and its own symphony orchestra, might have a French name and a French setting. It has been said that the composer, at the age of 37, wrote and scored "Rigoletto" in six weeks, but some authorities believe that the music was written earlier. At any rate in 1850, he completed the opera based on the text which Piave had created from Victor Hugo's play, "Le Roi s'Amuse."

The story was laid in the court of Francis I of France and although the Paris premiere of the play in 1832 almost precipitated a revolution Piaxe assured Verdi that an opera based on this story would cause no difficulty. However, when arrangements for the premiere in Venice were being made, the censor of that city forbad its presentation, at least in its original form. So the scene was moved from France to the ducal court of Mantua. The king became a duke, the beautiful Blanche became Gilda and Saltabadil was turned into Rigoletto, whose name became the title of the opera. This is the first time an opera company has ever played here.

Reserved seats are available at the theatre.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

An enthusiastic meeting of the friends of Scott and Graham was held in the public square of Gettysburg on the evening of the 8th inst. David Schriver presided. The vice presidents were Col. John Walter, James McCullough, George Stover, John Gilbert and Samuel G. Cook; secretaries, Barnabas Riley, John Riley. Eloquent addresses were delivered by D. McConaughy, Esq., and Gen. Reed. The Chippewa Glee Club, of Philadelphia, entertained the large assemblage with a number of their choice songs. All here is bright and cheering.

A beautiful pole was raised by the friends of Scott and Graham, in the village of Fairfield, on the 9th — on which occasion Gen. Reed and D. A. Buehler made spirited addresses. The meeting was quite a cheerful one, and the 2d of November will show a strong vote in that staunch Whig township.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The Dead Primate: The funeral obsequies of the late Archbishop Bayley took place at the cathedral in Baltimore on Tuesday, the ceremonies being very imposing. Over 200 Catholic clergymen were present including Cardinal McCloskey. . . . Bishop Foley pronounced an elegant tribute to the memory of the dead primate. At the close of the services, the funeral cortege moved to the Union Depot, where a special train of parlor cars was in waiting to convey the corpse and 200 invited friends to Emmitsburg by the Western Maryland railroad.

At St. Joseph's Seminary, the remains were received about 4 p.m. by a procession of clergy, professors and students of Mt. St. Mary's College; the Rev. Mr. McCaffrey, president; Rev. Brother Padgett, master of ceremonies, and Rev. G. G. McCall, assistant. One hundred Sisters of Charity were in waiting on the lawn of the Convent, with seventy-five of the young ladies of St. Joseph's Seminary, in long, white flowing veils, ready to meet the funeral cortege. A procession was formed along the pathway, through the beautiful grounds leading to the cemetery, where the mortal remains of the prelate were to be laid forever to rest. The Cardinal, Archbishops and Bishops surrounded the grave, a few words were chanted and the body was lowered into the grave.

The vault in which the Archbishop's remains were placed is in the midst of the Cemetery of St. Joseph. Over the vault a Gothic chapel has been built, dedicated to the memory of Mother Seton, aunt of the Archbishop, and foundress of the Order of Sisters of Charity in America.

SILENT LOVE AND INFLUENCE

Not everything great is recorded in words. Love and influence have a language all their own, and it is a silent one translated into immediate deeds. It may be no more than the passing of a smile, a pressure of the hand, or an understanding pat upon the back.

A soldier in the Crimean war wrote of his experience under the care of Florence Nightingale. He wrote: "What a comfort it was to see Florence Nightingale pass by! She would speak to one and nod to another; she could not do it to all, you know, for we were lying there by hundreds, but we could kiss her shadow as it fell, and lay our heads on the pillow again content."

What a gift from Heaven to have such an influence over others as Florence Nightingale had! I like that phrase that the soldier used —"we could kiss her shadow as it fell." There are people like that in all walks of life. You hear little of them for they work and go about doing good in such a silent selfless way that only their love and influence remain.

Many years ago I was housed in a hospital for many weeks after a major operation. A wonderful surgeon attended me. He had a resounding laugh that you could hear down the corridors the moment that he entered the institution. Many a one remarked to me that every patient within hearing of that laugh immediately began to feel better! The nurse who attended me once told me he had saved her life through his skill but that it was his cheerfulness that healed the wound.

How noticeable is the spell that a great personality casts about a crowded room or hall the moment he or she appears. It is a demonstration of character that is never false. There is no security so much to be depended upon as character. The elder J. P. Morgan once stated that he often loaned upon this one thing where he would not loan upon mere material security.

It is a wonderful thing to so live that people will see trust and integrity in your very eyes and face. There is unwritten wealth recorded there. If you daily dispense love and influence, you are among the rich of this earth!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Sharp Tongue."

TULIPS

As dead as anything can be
All tulip bulbs appear to me.
But still I plant them, row by row,
Believing in the spring they'll grow.

With all I have of mortal sight
I could not tell the red from white.
Howe'er I probed I could not find
A hint of color or of kind.

Though dead they seem, before the snow
I bury tulips, row by row,
With faith that with the spring they'll be
Re-born and beautiful to see.

STEVENSON'S CAMP BELIEVES VICTORY AHEAD

By JACK BELL

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Associates of Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson believe the Democrats have Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower on the run and will win next month's election with a great surge of support from the independent voters.

This view, sketched publicly by Campaign Manager Wilson Wyatt at a news conference yesterday, is shared privately by almost all of the Democratic presidential nominee's advisers. A number of Democrats have publicly voiced their optimism. Sen. William Fulbright of Arkansas has predicted that the Illinois governor will carry the South and the border states.

Secretary of Labor Tobin said yesterday Eisenhower will pay the price of losing New York for embracing Sens. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin and William E. Jenner of Indiana, detractors of Eisenhower's old friend and military preceptor, Gen. George C. Marshall.

"Penna. Looks Pretty Good"

Former Sen. Francis J. Myers reported that "things look pretty good" for Stevenson in vital Pennsylvania.

Wyatt said widespread requests have been received from local Democratic organizations for appearances of President Truman in their areas.

He made it plain he thinks the Democrats are beginning to harvest "extremely substantial" support from the independent vote.

He told reporters that National Committee members and volunteer workers indicate there is a wave of desertions from Eisenhower's cause.

Seeks Small Gifts

He said that "I Used to Like Ike" groups were being formed because of "disillusionment" with the general's campaign tactics. This "disillusionment," he said, is "based on the compromises, the shifts of position and the abandonment of principles that they felt before were emphatically held by him."

Gov. Stevenson, in a radio speech seeking $5 contributions for his campaign, said he is deeply concerned over the high costs of campaigning.

"The financial requirements are entirely too large," he said over the American Broadcasting Company network last night. It sometimes leads to "temptation to concentrate on large donations," which "does not always serve the public interest," he said.

Rebel Yells At Nashville

He called the campaign for $5 donations a "particularly healthy" way of meeting the costs because donors would "ask in return only faithful public service."

Stevenson evidently was well satisfied with the results of his invasion of the South last week.

He told reporters he thought his reception in New Orleans, La., Miami and Tampa, Fla., and at Nashville, Tenn., had been "fine."

In a background of colorful crowd reaction and piercing rebel yells, Stevenson laid it on the line for the Southerners at a speech in Nashville Saturday night.

Classified Shivers

His thesis was that the South had everything to lose and nothing to gain by going Republican. He reminded his listeners that Southerners would lose influential committee chairmanships in Congress if the Senate and House go Republican.

He contended in other speeches that the South's progress in the last 20 years had been made possible by enlightened Democratic policies.

He jumped on the "apostates" and "mugwumps" he said "obviously lack the courage of their own imported convictions" in urging the South to vote for Eisenhower.

This seemed to classify Govs. Allan Shivers of Texas, James F. Byrnes of South Carolina and Robert Kennon of Louisiana, so far as the Stevenson camp is concerned.

Former Judge Bard Attacks Sen. Martin

NEW CASTLE, Pa., (AP)—Former Judge Guy K. Bard, Democratic candidate for U. S. senator, began a tour of Lawrence and Beaver Counties Saturday after terming the voting record of his opponent, Sen. Edward Martin, the "second worst in the Senate."

"Never, even by accident, has Sen. Martin ever voted for the good of the people," Bard said in a street corner speech at Ford City yesterday.

Bard praised the Democratic administration at Washington for such welfare measures as social security, old age pensions and federal housing.

CHARGES DELAY IN KOREA RELIEF

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., (AP)—John Foster Dulles, Republican foreign policy advisor, charged Friday night there has been "an unjustified delay" in relieving American troops with Korean units.

A Republican administration, Dulles told 400 persons at Bloomfield High School, would strive to end the war as soon as possible and thus end Russia's advantage.

In his prepared text, Dulles denied a Democratic charge that a Republican administration would use force to free nations behind the Iron Curtain.

Dulles said the GOP policy endorsed by Gen. Dwight E. Eisenhower in a September speech before the American Legion in New York is to "encourage the forces which can disintegrate the Russian communist empire from within."

He added:

"The Democrats, as part of their campaign to make the Republican policy seem frightening, have deliberately misrepresented the Republicans as advocating wars of liberation."

"General Eisenhower said that we should 'aid by every peaceful means, but only by peaceful means' the right to live in freedom."

One Killed, Six Injured In Crash

The others, all admitted to Midvalley Hospital, were Nicholas Zinsky, 19, and Joseph Yskanin, 22, both with leg fractures; and John Budnovitch, 21, and Michael Patuk, 21, with minor injuries.

State police Pfc. Stanley Balut, of Blakely barracks, said the driver, Paul Klem, 22, who was slightly injured, told him he failed to negotiate a curve when he was blinded by the lights of another car.

Identify One Of 2 Burned To Death

NEW HOLLAND, Pa. (AP)—State police had identified one of the two men found burned to death in a shack in the nearby Welsh Mountains of Lancaster County as Martin Dewey Bair, 54.

They said charred papers under the other body indicated it might be Walter K. Adams, whose address was listed as the Lancaster County Home.

RUSSIANS SAY UNARMED B29 FIRED ON PLANE

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia has charged that a U.S. B29 bomber shot at Soviet fighter planes over Russian Far Eastern territory Tuesday and said the Red pilots returned the fire. The incident occurred the same day the U.S. Air Force reported one of its Superforts missing off Japan.

A Soviet note to the United States, formally protesting the alleged border violation, said the American plane "disappeared in the direction of the sea" after the Russians shot back. The text of the note was published by the Communist party newspaper Pravda and was broadcast by Moscow radio.

Had No Guns Or Gunners

(In Tokyo, a U. S. Air Force spokesman said the missing American plane "carried no guns and no gunners" among its crew of eight. The Air Force previously had announced the bomber, flying a training trip, was last seen on a radar screen within Japanese waters. It disappeared from the screen when its path crossed that of an unidentified plane approaching from the Russian-occupied Kurile Islands, officers said.)

The new controversy is the latest in a series of incidents involving U. S. and Soviet planes in both Europe and the Far East. It comes at a time when American-Soviet relations—as a result of the ouster of U. S. Ambassador George Kennan—are at the lowest point in the 20 years the two nations have recognized each other.

IKE HEADS INTO SOLID SOUTH ON HOME STRETCH

By DON WHITEHEAD

ABOARD EISENHOWER SPECIAL (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower headed into the home stretch drive for the presidency today by pointing his final appeals toward the Democratic Southland and the vote-rich industrial East.

With only three weeks to go before election, the GOP candidate took on a whirlwind schedule crammed with speechmaking, conferences and strategy huddles on which his command based their hopes for victory Nov. 4.

His campaign caravan took off by plane at dawn today for appearances in Casper and Cheyenne, Wyo., Tulsa and Oklahoma City, Okla., and finally a night speech in New Orleans.

Confers With Brownell

Sunday, Eisenhower held an unannounced conference with Herbert Brownell, who was campaign manager for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in the 1944-48 presidential fights. He also helped engineer the Eisenhower nomination in Chicago at the GOP National Convention.

Others who talked with the general were Ralph Cake, former Oregon national committeeman, and Barrak T. Mattingly of Missouri, former general counsel for the Republican National committee.

The three arrived in Denver late yesterday but kept quiet on the subject of their talks.

Going To Texas

Brownell told a reporter he was optimistic over Eisenhower's chances and that he considered Illinois—the home state of Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson—the only real "doubtful" state on the list.

Tomorrow, Eisenhower pushes into Texas, where rebellious Democrats led by Gov. Allen Shivers have pledged their support in a move that has placed the Lone Star State among the doubtful states. Shivers is expected to introduce Eisenhower at some of his stops.

Wednesday, Eisenhower will make stops at Memphis and Knoxville, Tenn., before returning to New York and a campaign into some of the Eastern industrial areas.

The general took a two-day breather in Denver over the week end to rest up for this final push. He played a little golf with old friends and attended Sunday church services.

Albright Stops Bullets 7-0 On First Quarter Aerial

A sensational catch of a 23-yard pass by Bruce Eickhoff, 6-3 Albright end, with four Bullet defenders swarming over him with 40 seconds of play remaining in the first quarter gave Albright a 7-0 victory over the Gettysburg College gridders here Saturday afternoon before about 3,500 fans to bring to an end a seven-game winning streak for the Bullets.

The spot for the winning pass by Bob Carney was set up on one of the many penalties which hurt the Bullets' chances for victory. Shortly before the TD-play Earl Yost had intercepted an Albright aerial on the Bullets' 28 but the officials ruled interference on the play and Albright was given a first down on the 20. Tenley picked up three yards on a line plunge and then Sudol lost a yard. The Lions were set back 5 yards for offsides and then the fatal play took place. Tony D'Apolito booted the extra point.

From that time on it was strictly a battle between two strong defensive units as neither team could manufacture any sustained drive.

End Scoring Streak

A 40-game scoring streak of Gettysburg which extended back to 1947 came to an end when the Bullets failed to hit pay dirt.

The game was a dog fight the whole way although the Lions kept play pretty much confined to Gettysburg territory, thanks to a flock of penalties and four fumbles against the Bullets.

Sudol took Ronnie Miller's opening kickoff and returned from his 12 to the 31. D'Apolito and Tenley picked up a first down on the Albright 42 and then Sudol got away for 28 yards around right end to put the ball on the Gettysburg 30. The Bullets braced and, after a 15-yard penalty against the Lions for illegal use of the hands, lost the ball on downs on the Gettysburg 30.

Ward was soon forced to punt after which Tenley and Sudol pounded out a first down on the Gettysburg 44. On the next play D'Apolito fumbled and Sam Mowery recovered for Gettysourg on the Bullets' 39.

Penalty Hurts

Albright's defensive unit, which turned in a stellar performance, held and Ward punted to the Lions' 40. Tenley, D'Apolito and Sudol picked up a first down on the Gettysburg 49.

Tenley was halted on the next play but D'Apolito picked up three yards at right end. On the next play Earl Yost intercepted a pass by D'Apolito on the Gettysburg 28 but the officials ruled interference and Albright took over on the 20 from where they moved for the score.

Early in the second period, after an exchange of punts and a 15-yard clipping penalty had kept Gettysburg deep in its own territory, the Battlefield boys took over on their own 16 via a punt by Sudol.

Halted By Fumble

Bob Eppleman, an outstanding ground gainer for the Bullets tthroughout, raced 29 yards to Gettysburg's 45 on a sweep around right end. Bill Yocum smacked the line for two yards and the Joe Ujobai went off right tackle for a first down on the Albright 45. Eppleman picked up a yard before Walt Hemberger, on an end around, reacheed the 35. However, on the next try Fred Strahlendorf recovered Eppleman's fumble for the Lions on the 30.

Albright could get no where and Sudol punted to Mowery, who fumbled and when Fred Hess recovered for the Red and White on the Bullets' 41, Gettysburg was again in trouble.

On two plays D'Apolito and Carney picked up a first down on the 29. Here the Bullets braced and Albright's threat ended when Yost intercepted Carney's pass in the end zone and raced out to the 15.

Two plays later Jack Peiffer fell on Bill Yocum's fumble to give the Lions the ball on the Gettysburg 28. Two smashes by Carney were good for five yards and then Jim Megee intercepted Carney's pass on the 20. Eppleman ran for a first down on the 40 as the half ended.

Bullets Stop Threat

Albright missed another opportunity early in the third period when Ward's fumble was recovered by Al Weidman on the Gettysburg 23 shortly after the last half got underway. Three Lion aerials fell incomplete as the Bullets took over on the 21.

Late in the third frame Tenley took Ward's punt on the Albright 44. After Bill Ewing broke through to toss DePaul on the Lion 30, Sudol dropped back t opunt. Howard Pettit, G-Burg center, broke through to block and recover the pigskin on Albright's 30.

The tight Lion defense was equal to the occasion and took over on the 35 after a Bullet pass was good but for a 5-yard loss on the last down.

After about five minutes of the final period Pettit recovered a fumble by D'Apolito on the Albright 42 but once again the Bullet attack could not get underway and Ward soon kicked out on the Albright 26.

From that stage on the game was played mostly in midfield.

Berky Ward, Bullet passing star, was in trouble throughout the entire afternoon as the Albright defensive forward wall broke through to hurry all of his passes and frequently smothered him for losses before he got the ball away.

Next Saturday the Bullets meet Lehigh at Bethlehem.

ALL PA. CHAMPS BEATEN OR TIED

HARRISBURG (AP)—With less than half the 1952 schoolboy grid campaign written into history every defending champion of Pennsylvania's six major conferences has been defeated or tied.

And, last year's title winners in five other leagues have been unable to keep their records perfectly clean. Only a single conference leader of 1951, Lewistown of the Central Counties, has managed to win all its '52 games.

Week-end play saw two strong defending titlists, one in the west, the other in the east, take it on the chin from teams that had already lost a game.

In the 36-team Class AA section of the Pittsburgh area WPIAL, the Farrell Steelers were beaten, 25-24, by Ambridge. Ambridge had already been removed from the list of contenders by losing to Beaver Falls.

The defending champion of the 53-member East Penn conference, Swoyersville, was unable to maintain a 13-game all-winning skein. A fourth-period touchdown gave once-beaten Larksville a 6-6 tie.

Other defending champs of major circuits who had lost or tied before are Williamsport (Central Penn), Conemaugh Township (Western), Meadville (Section II) and Gettysburg (South Penn).

MICHIGAN STATE OWNS LONGEST WINNING STREAK

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — With the unceremonious demise of Princeton, the mighty Spartans from Michigan State today owned the longest winning streak in college football —18 games—and they show no signs of letting up there.

Maryland and Georgia Tech each have gone through 18 games without a defeat, but they've been tied.

Michigan State still has six games to play so it's rather early to be predicting another undefeated season for them, but if they perform in the manner they did Saturday in hanging a 48-6 pasting on Texas A and M, their future opponents are not going to look to the Spartan games with any enthusiasm.

Irish Looked Bad

State still has to meet, in order, Syracuse, Penn State, Purdue, Indiana, Notre Dame and Marquette.

Until it took a 22-19 beating from Pitt, Notre Dame probably would have been regarded as a threat to Biggie Munn's lads, who next year start operations in the Big Ten. But the Irish looked bad against the Panthers.

Maryland and Georgia Tech continue to roll along, and neither should be pressed to any great extent this week against, respectively, Navy and Auburn. The Terps polished off Georgia, 37-0, and Tech topped Tulane, 14-0, Saturday.

California Seems Sure

California, which has piled up a staggering 152 points in four games, seems assured of winning the Pacific Coast Conference title, although it still must get past Southern California and UCLA.

Wisconsin, the class of the Big Ten, and No. 1 team in the country in last week's AP poll, was the victim of the biggest upset of the season Saturday. Ohio State soundly pasted the Badgers, 23-14.

That made it a brand new race in the Big Ten, although there still is nothing to prevent Wisconsin from winning it. On paper, the Badgers still can field the most potent squad in the loop. However, as of today, Purdue, which trounced Iowa, 41-14, in its last outing, stands at the head of the class with a 2-0 league record.

Not A Surprise

Princeton's 13-7 defeat at the hands of Penn, strangely, was not a surprise. The Quakers were known to be powerful while Princeton, without the services of the graduated Dick Kazmaier, was an unknown quantity. Penn now should have no trouble sweeping to the league crown, held the last two years by the Tigers.

The Kansas-Oklahoma-Nebraska battle for the big Seven probably ended Saturday when Nebraska's hard luck kid, Bobby Reynolds, was hurt during the Cornhuskers' 27-14 triumph oveer Kansas State. This should narrow the race down to Oklahoma and Kansas, who meet head on this week.

Both warmed up to their tasks Saturday, the Sooners manhandling Texas, 49-20, and Kansas annihilating Iowa State, 43-0.

In the traditionally mixed up Southwest Conference, things are traditionally mixed up. There isn't an undefeated team in the loop, which leaves things right back where they were in the beginning of the season, with defending champion Texas Christian still the choice by default.

The Horned Frogs go against Texas A and M this week. The conference goes into full-scale operations Saturday, so the picture should be cleared somewhat in a week or two.

In the Rocky Mountain Conference, the eventual champion probably will be decided this week when Idaho State and Colorado State, the two top powers, tangle at Pocatello. Houston is the surprise leader in the Missouri Valley, after clobbering the defending champion University of Tulsa, 33-7.

Georgia Tech might get a tussle from Alabama and Tennessee for the Southeastern loop title, while Duke heads the Southern Conference, although Virginia remains unbeaten, too. The pair tangle in two weeks.

NCAA GROUPS CONFER ON TV

CHICAGO (AP) — With a recent Notre Dame blast at collegiate television policies still resounding, two committees of the NCAA met today to work over TV and other plans for the future.

A four-day general policy going-over was in prospect. Besides the television problem, the committees planned to take up such things as post-season competition and alleged nonobservance of NCAA rules by at least three of its members.

Names of the schools involved in the reported infractions have not been made public.

The committees on hand are the NCAA Executive Committee and the NCAA Council. The overall purpose of the meetings is to shape varius reports for final action by the NCAA Convention in January.

LASALLE DELONE FOURTH SETBACK 13-7

Delone Catholic dropped its fourth decision in five starts when it lost a hard fought 13-7 verdict to the LaSalle Catholic High gridders of Cumberland, Md., Sunday afternoon at McSherrystown.

LaSalle capitalized on an intercepted pass and a recovered fumble to tally both of its touchdowns.

With less than a minute remaining in the first half the Explorers halted a Delone threat when Denny Shuck intercepted a pass thrown by Wib Noel.

Marty Mullaney then faded back and tossed a pass to Paul Ackerman which was good for a 79-yard scoring play. Kegg added the point via a placement kick.

Fumble Proves Costly

In the third period LaSalle recovered a Squire fumble on Delone's 28-yard line. It took four plays for the score, Bob Christ going over from the 12.

Coach Johnny McMahon's team took the following kickoff and drove 65 yards for a score, Tom E. Smith plunging over from the 1-yard mark early in the final period. Tom G. Smith raced around end to add the point.

GIANTS SPANK BROWNS 17 TO 9; CLING TO LEAD

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Giants and the San Francisco 49ers boasting the only unblemished records in the National Football League, ranked as the sole leaders of their respective divisions today.

The Giants moved into undisputed possession of first place in the American Conference by defeating the Cleveland Browns, 17-9, yesterday, while the 49ers were thwarting their most formidable challengers, the Detroit Lions, 28-0. The victors now own identical 3-0 slates.

The Giants' stubborn defense, bulwarked by the stellar line play of Arnie Weinmeister and Bill Albright, completely stifled the Cleveland ground game. The Browns only could gain 21 yards rushing, although they picked up 236 yards passing.

Three field goals by Lou Groza, one a 52-year-effort, kept the forces of Coach Paul Brown in contention as Cleveland led, 9-7, at the end of three periods. The Browns' field goal specialist sustained a head injury during the game and said afterward that he could not remember any of his kicks.

Intercept Pass

The Giants bolted ahead in the final stanza on Ray Poole's 25-yard field goal and then they iced the contest when Tom Landry intercepted an Otto Graham aerial and pranced 30 yards for the decisive tally.

San Francisco's almost impregnable defense held the Lions to a net gain of 65 yards. Elusive Hugh McElhenny, the rookie from Washington, and rugged veteran Joe Perry compiled most of the ground gaining yardage for the bruising 49ers.

Sparked by quarterback Bob Williams, the Chicago Bears climbed into second place in the National conference by trouncing the winless Dallas Texans, 38-20. Williams saw action in only the first half as he completed 13 out of 15 passes, three of them for touchdowns.

The Philadelphia Eagles overcame an eight-point deficit in the last nine minutes of play to administer a 26-21 setback to the Pittsburgh Steelers, who suffered their third straight loss. The magic toe of Philadelphia's Bob Walston accounted for four field goals.

The combined efforts of Billy Cross' running and Charley Trippi's passing gave the Chicago Cardinals a 17-6 conquest of the Washington Redskins. Trippi tallied the first touchdown in the opening stanza on a two-yard plunge after his tosses had set up the score. The 155-pound Cross romped 15 yards into pay dirt with 30 seconds to play in the game.

A 24-point barrage in the fourth quarter gave the defending champion Los Angeles Rams an exciting 30-28 victory over the Green Bay Packers. Besides booting three field goals, quarterback Bob Waterfield also engineered the Rams' 92-yard game-winning drive in the final two minutes of play. Waterfield's trio of three-pointers gave him a new league career record of 52.

cense and State Highway and Bridge Authority funds, during the fiscal year includes $10,578,000 for local roads and streets, $16,326,000 for administration, engineering, overhead, etc., and $4,905,000 for special work and purchase of land, buildings and equipment.

As a result of an appropriation increase by the last Legislature to local levels of government to $12,000,000 per annum over the former $10,000,000. These communities this year will receive the largest sum on record. These funds are allocated to the individual cities, boroughs and townships on a ratio of 60 per cent mileage and 40 per cent population. An addtional $3,000,000 was made available for construction of roads and streets when matched equally by the local subdivisions from local taxes.

$12 Million More For Roads

Another one-half cent per gallon gasoline tax allocated to the counties of Pennsylvania now amounts to $12,000,000 per year which must also be expended for local road and street construction and maintenance. These sums comprise $27,000,000 per year of state taxes available to local communities for highway purposes.

Percentage-wise costs are:

Construction, 65.1 per cent; maintenance, 17.2 per cent; local governments, 5.9 per cent, while administration and engineering expenses were 9.0 per cent of total expenditures. Special work consumed 1.3 per cent and land and buildings 1.5 per cent.

Newest Safety Factors

The design of Pennsylvania's modern highways and streets now includes every known safety factor to insure maximum protection for the motorist Larger and easier reading signs of improved reflectorizing material are replacing smaller and less effective signs on the principal highways.

The Highway Department cooperates with the Highway Safety Bureau of the Department of Revenue and the Pennsylvania State Police in educational and enforcement features of safer highways. These combined with modern engineering have won for Pennsylvania the top position in highway safety.

Likewise, within the department, safety precautions have won the National Safety Council's "Award of Honor."

Rising costs have been a troublesome factor in operation of the Highway Department, Secretary of Highways Schmidt reported.

Need Wide Roads

The weight and volume of present day traffic on the more important highways demand wider traffic lanes and multiple lanes to overcome existing congestion. In the 1930's a good two-lane highway could be constructed for $50,000 per mile. Today the cost in $200,000. A four-lane divided highway costs from $300,000 per mile in easy construction areas to a million dollars per mile in the more difficult sections of Pennsylvania.

"The roads of the 1920's and 1930's, like any other structure built by man, are wearing out," Mr. Schmidt continued. "Traffic has increased 50 per cent since 1940. Truck traffic has doubled during the same period.

"Owners and operators of heavy commercial vehicles are clamoring constantly for construction of highways which will accommodate ever-increasing loads.

"The highway engineer can design and build these roads but only to a limited extent with the funds available.

Asks U. S. To Withdraw

"The highway administrator and engineer has met the responsibility of maintaining old roads which were never built for the weights they are carrying. It is a smiple problem to increase the size and weight of a vehicle but inherent road strength can only be increased materially by complete reconstruction.

"More funds are necessary if the immediate and widespread needs of the State Highway system are to be met in the near future.

"If the Federal Government would withdraw from the field of gasoline taxation, with the present two cent per gallon Federal tax passing to the state for highway construction, about $24,000,000 more annually would be available for Pennsylvania's highways and without added costs to Pennsylvania's motorists," Mr. Schmidt concluded.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

An enthusiastic meeting of the friends of Scott and Graham was held in the public square of Gettysburg on the evening of the 8th inst. David Schriver presided. The vice presidents were Col. John Walter, James McCullough, George Stover, John Gilbert and Samuel G. Cook; secretaries, Barnabas Riley, John Riley. Eloquent addresses were delivered by D. McConaughy, Esq., and Gen. Reed. The Chippewa Glee Club, of Philadelphia, entertained the large assemblage with a number of their choice songs. All here is bright and cheering.

A beautiful pole was raised by the friends of Scott and Graham, in the village of Fairfield, on the 9th — on which occasion Gen. Reed and D. A. Buehler made spirited addresses. The meeting was quite a cheerful one, and the 2d of November will show a strong vote in that staunch Whig township.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The Dead Primate: The funeral obsequies of the late Archbishop Bayley took place at the cathedral in Baltimore on Tuesday, the ceremonies being very imposing. Over 200 Catholic clergymen were present including Cardinal McCloskey. . . . Bishop Foley pronounced an elegant tribute to the memory of the dead primate. At the close of the services, the funeral cortege moved to the Union Depot, where a special train of parlor cars was in waiting to convey the corpse and 200 invited friends to Emmitsburg by the Western Maryland railroad

At St Joseph's Seminary, the remains were received about 4 p.m. by a procession of clergy, professors and students of Mt. St Mary's College; the Rev. Mr. McCaffrey, president; Rev. Brother Padgett, master of ceremonies, and Rev G. G. McCall, assistant One hundred Sisters of Charity were in waiting on the lawn of the Convent, with seventy-five of the young ladies of St Joseph's Seminary, in long, white flowing veils, ready to meet the funeral cortege. A procession was formed along the pathway, through the beautiful grounds leading to the cemetery, where the mortal remains of the prelate were to be laid forever to rest. The Cardinal, Archbishops and Bishops surrounded the grave, a few words were chanted and the body was lowered into the grave.

The vault in which the Archbishop's remains were placed is in the midst of the Cemetery of St. Joseph. Over the vault a Gothic chapel has been built, dedicated to the memory of Mother Seton, aunt of the Archbishop, and foundress of the Order of Sisters of Charity in America.

Arm Broken: On Saturday Earny Sherfy, son of Rev. Joseph Sherfy, residing on the Emmitsburg road, about two miles from this place, sustained a fracture of his left arm. An old trusty mare was out, with several colts, and in turning them home the lad leaped upon her back without a bridle or saddle. She started in playful mood at a rather rapid gait, and meeting some obstruction, he was "scraped off," and his arm broken by he fall.

Today's Talk

SILENT LOVE AND INFLUENCE

Not everything great is recorded in words. Love and influence have a language all their own, and it is a silent one translated into immediate deeds. It may be no more than the passing of a smile, a pressure of the hand, or an understanding pat upon the back.

A soldier in the Crimean war wrote of his experience under the care of Florence Nightingale. He wrote: "What a comfort it was to see Florence Nightingale pass by! She would speak to one and nod to another; she could not do it to all, you know, for we were lying there by hundreds, but we could kiss her shadow as it fell, and lay our heads on the pillow again content."

What a gift from Heaven to have such an influence over others as Florence Nightingale had! I like that phrase that the soldier used —"we could kiss her shadow as it fell." There are people like that in all walks of life. You hear little of them for they work and go about doing good in such a silent selfless way that only their love and influence remain.

Many years ago I was housed in a hospital for many weeks after a major operation. A wonderful surgeon attended me. He had a resounding laugh that you could hear down the corridors the moment that he entered the institution. Many a one remarked to me that every patient within hearing of that laugh immediately began to feel better! The nurse who attended me once told me he had saved her life through his skill but that it was his cheerfulness that healed the wound.

How noticeable is the spell that a great personality casts about a crowded room or hall the moment he or she appears. It is a demonstration of character that is never false. There is no security so much to be depended upon as character. The elder J. P. Morgan once stated that he often loaned upon this one thing where he would not loan upon mere material security.

It is a wonderful thing to so live that people will see trust and integrity in your very eyes and face. There is unwritten wealth recorded there. If you daily dispense love and influence, you are among the rich of this earth!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Sharp Tongue."

TULIPS

As dead as anything can be
All tulip bulbs appear to me.
But still I plant them, row by row,
Believing in the spring they'll grow.

With all I have of mortal sight
I could not tell the red from white.
How'er I probed I could not find
A hint of color or of kind.

Though dead they seem, before the snow
I bury tulips, row by row,
With faith that with the spring they'll be
Re-born and beautiful to see.

STEVENSON'S CAMP BELIEVES VICTORY AHEAD

By JACK BELL

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Associates of Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson believe the Democrats have Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower on the run and will win next month's election with a great surge of support from the independent voters.

This view, sketched publicly by Campaign Manager Wilson Wyatt at a news conference yesterday, is shared privately by almost all of the Democratic presidential nominee's advisers. A number of Democrats have publicly voiced their optimism. Sen. William Fulbright of Arkansas has predicted that the Illinois governor will carry the South and the border states.

Secretary of Labor Tobin said yesterday Eisenhower will pay the price of losing New York for embracing Sens. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin and William E. Jenner of Indiana, detractors of Eisenhower's old friend and military preceptor, Gen. George C. Marshall.

"Penna. Looks Pretty Good"

Former Sen. Francis J. Myers reported that "things look pretty good" for Stevenson in vital Pennsylvania.

Wyatt said widespread requests have been received from local Democratic organizations for appearances of President Truman in their areas.

He made it plain he thinks the Democrats are beginning to harvest "extremely substantial" support from the independent vote.

He told reporters that National Committee members and volunteer workers indicate there is a wave of desertions from Eisenhower's cause.

Seeks Small Gifts

He said that "I Used to Like Ike" groups were being formed because of "disillusionment" with the general's campaign tactics. This "disillusionment," he said, is "based on the compromises, the shifts of position and the abandonment of principles that they felt before were emphatically held by him."

Gov. Stevenson, in a radio speech seeking $5 contributions for his campaign, said he is deeply concerned over the high costs of campaigning.

"The financial requirements are entirely too large," he said over the American Broadcasting Company network last night. It sometimes leads to "temptation to concentrate on large donations," which "does not always serve the public interest," he said.

Rebel Yells At Nashville

He called the campaign for $5 donations a "particularly healthy" way of meeting the costs because donors would "ask in return only faithful public service."

Stevenson evidently was well satisfied with the results of his invasion of the South last week.

He told reporters he thought his reception in New Orleans, La., Miami and Tampa, Fla., and at Nashville, Tenn., had been "fine."

In a background of colorful crowd reaction and piercing rebel yells, Stevenson laid it on the line for the Southerners at a speech in Nashville Saturday night.

Classified Shivers

His thesis was that the South had everything to lose and nothing to gain by going Republican. He reminded his listeners that Southerners would lose influential committee chairmanships in Congress if the Senate and House go Republican.

He contended in other speeches that the South's progress in the last 20 years had been made possible by enlightened Democratic policies.

He jumped on the "apostates" and "mugwumps" he said "obviously lack the courage of their own imported convictions" in urging the South to vote for Eisenhower.

This seemed to classify Govs. Allan Shivers of Texas, James F. Byrnes of South Carolina and Robert Kennon of Louisiana, so far as the Stevenson camp is concerned.

Former Judge Bard Attacks Sen. Martin

NEW CASTLE, Pa., (AP)—Former Judge Guy K. Bard, Democratic candidate for U. S. senator, began a tour of Lawrence and Beaver Counties Saturday after terming the voting record of his opponent, Sen. Edward Martin, the "second worst in the Senate."

"Never, even by accident, has Sen. Martin ever voted for the good of the people," Bard said in a street corner speech at Ford City yesterday.

Bard praised the Democratic administration at Washington for such welfare measures as social security, old age pensions and federal housing.

CHARGES DELAY IN KOREA RELIEF

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., (AP)—John Foster Dulles, Republican foreign policy advisor, charged Friday night there has been "an unjustified delay" in relieving American troops with Korean units.

A Republican administration, Dulles told 400 persons at Bloomfield High School, would strive to end the war as soon as possible and thus end Russia's advantage.

In his prepared text, Dulles denied a Democratic charge that a Republican administration would use force to free nations behind the Iron Curtain.

Dulles said the GOP policy endorsed by Gen. Dwight E. Eisenhower in a September speech before the American Legion in New York is to "encourage the forces which can disintegrate the Russian communist empire from within."

He added:

"The Democrats, as part of their campaign to make the Republican policy seem frightening, have deliberately misrepresented the Republicans as advocating wars of liberation."

"General Eisenhower said that we should 'aid by every peaceful means, but only by peaceful means' the right to live in freedom."

One Killed, Six Injured In Crash

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — Six Olyphant men were injured, one of them fatally, when their car crashed into a pole in front of Midvalley Hospital at nearby Blakely yesterday.

The others, all admitted to Midvalley Hospital, were Nicholas Zinsky, 19, and Joseph Yskanin, 22, both with leg fractures; and John Budnovitch, 21, and Michael Patuk, 21, with minor injuries.

State police Pfc. Stanley Balut, of Blakely barracks, said the driver, Paul Klem, 22, who was slightly injured, told him he failed to negotiate a curve when he was blinded by the lights of another car.

Identify One Of 2 Burned To Death

NEW HOLLAND, Pa. (AP)—State police had identified one of the two men found burned to death in a shack in the nearby Welsh Mountains of Lancaster County as Martin Dewey Bair, 54.

They said charred papers under the other body indicated it might be Walter K. Adams, whose address was listed as the Lancaster County Home.

RUSSIANS SAY UNARMED B29 FIRED ON PLANE

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia has charged that a U.S. B29 bomber shot at Soviet fighter planes over Russian Far Eastern territory Tuesday and said the Red pilots returned the fire. The incident occurred the same day the U.S. Air Force reported one of its Superforts missing off Japan.

A Soviet note to the United States, formally protesting the alleged border violation, said the American plane "disappeared in the direction of the sea" after the Russians shot back. The text of the note was published by the Communist party newspaper Pravda and was broadcast by Moscow radio.

Had No Guns Or Gunners

(In Tokyo, a U. S. Air Force spokesman said the missing American plane "carried no guns and no gunners" among its crew of eight. The Air Force previously had announced the bomber, flying a training trip, was last seen on a radar screen within Japanese waters. It disappeared from the screen when its path crossed that of an unidentified plane approaching from the Russian-occupied Kurile Islands, officers said.)

The new controversy is the latest in a series of incidents involving U. S. and Soviet planes in both Europe and the Far East. It comes at a time when American-Soviet relations—as a result of the ouster of U. S. Ambassador George Kennan—are at the lowest point in the 20 years the two nations have recognized each other.

By DON WHITEHEAD

ABOARD EISENHOWER SPECIAL (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower headed into the home stretch drive for the presidency today by pointing his final appeals toward the Democratic Southland and the vote-rich industrial East.

With only three weeks to go before election, the GOP candidate took on a whirlwind schedule crammed with speechmaking, conferences and strategy huddles on which his command based their hopes for victory Nov. 4.

His campaign caravan took off by plane at dawn today for appearances in Casper and Cheyenne, Wyo., Tulsa and Oklahoma City, Okla., and finally a night speech in New Orleans.

Confers With Brownell

Sunday, Eisenhower held an unannounced conference with Herbert Brownell, who was campaign manager for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in the 1944-48 presidential fights. He also helped engineer the Eisenhower nomination in Chicago at the GOP National Convention.

Others who talked with the general were Ralph Cake, former Oregon national committeeman, and Barrak T. Mattingly of Missouri, former general counsel for the Republican National committee.

The three arrived in Denver late yesterday but kept quiet on the subject of their talks.

Going To Texas

Brownell told a reporter he was optimistic over Eisenhower's chances and that he considered Illinois—the home state of Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson—the only real "doubtful" state on the list.

Tomorrow, Eisenhower pushes into Texas, where rebellious Democrats led by Gov. Allen Shivers have pledged their support in a move that has placed the Lone Star State among the doubtful states. Shivers is expected to introduce Eisenhower at some of his stops.

Wednesday, Eisenhower will make stops at Memphis and Knoxville, Tenn., before returning to New York and a campaign into some of the Eastern industrial areas.

The general took a two-day breather in Denver over the week end to rest up for this final push. He played a little golf with old friends and attended Sunday church services.

The service concluded with the singing of "Heavenly Light," singing of the Doxology, the benediction pronounced by the pastor and the organ postlude.

The Sunday bulletins were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Bernard W. Dutterer in honor of their 19th wedding anniversary and Mrs. Dutterer's birthday, both of which were observed on Sunday. The altar flowers were gathered from the church flower gardens. Serving as ushers for the service were Claude L. Sterner, Ralph L. Snyder, Bernard W. Dutterer and Richard E. Weikert. An announcement was made regarding the $1,000 memorial to the Rev. Dr. Francis Lindaman for the new church. Contributions for the memorial may be made with any member of the consistory or the church trustees, or Stanley R. Sell, treasurer of the building fund, and the memorial collection reported that $300 has been received toward the memorial. It was announced that the choir members are selling Christmas cards for the benefit of the organ fund toward a new organ for the new church of the future. Orders for the cards may be placed with any member of the choir. The pastor and his family extended sincere appreciation for the many gifts, cards and kindnesses shown to them since the arrival of their son, Roy Benjamin.

The King's Daughters Sunday School class of Christ Church will sponsor a pork and sauerkraut supper for the public, this Saturday. Serving will begin at 4 o'clock in the church grove hall. Other refreshments will be on sale.

Littlestown

LITTLESTOWN—The Rev. David S. Kammerer and L. Robert Snyder of the Music Committee will be in charge of the program for the weekly meeting of the Littlestown Rotary Club on Tuesday evening at 6:15 o'clock at Schottie's Hotel.

The members of Girl Scout Troop No. 12, Miss Mary Rita Redding, leader, went on a hobo hike on Friday evening. The course of the hike was as follows: Starting at St. Aloysius Parochial School to the Boneauville Road, as far as Pleasant Hill School to Basehoar's farm grove and from there to the Littlestown-Hanover Road, then returning to town. At the farm grove a campfire was built and supper was enjoyed. The scouts carried their food hobo style, tied in kerchiefs fastened to sticks and carried over their shoulders. Group games were played and a song fest followed supper. Those who participated in the hike included Teresa Krichten, Judy Ernst, Dianne Frock, Patricia Weaver, Jessie Rang, Maxine Reinhart, Ellen Beck, Vivian, Barbara and Marie Beavenour and Miss Redding, the leader.

James Robert Crouse, son of Robert Levi Jr. and Peggy Olive Deardorff Crouse, North Queen St., was baptized on Wednesday afternoon in Redeemer's Reformed Church by the pastor, the Rev. Frank E. Reynolds.

Freedom Train, Pennsylvania Week Special Were Brought To Gettysburg Over Reading

This is the eleventh and final installment in a series of articles on railroading in Adams County.

The rails of the G and H carried two more "passenger" trains after regular service was abandoned, however. The first was the "Freedom Train" special, which thrilled thousands with its visit here on November 18 and 19, 1948. On October 23, 1950, Gettysburg was the last stop, before returning to Harrisburg, for the "Pennsylvania Week" special, with a galaxy of movie and radio stars, "Miss Pennsylvania," and high ranking state officials, including Governor James H. Duff, now U. S. senator from Pennsylvania. Mr. Fleagle was the conductor on the "Pennsylvania Week Special."

Freight service is the business of the G and H now, and it serves well it territory and interchanges freight with the Western Maryland in Gettysburg.

The line, from the old passenger station (now closed) on N. Washington St., curves just below Oak Ridge, where some of the stiffest fighting of the first day of the Battle of Gettysburg took place, across state highway route 34 (The Gettysburg-Biglerville - Carlisle Rd.) to Goldenville and Biglerville, and almost directly north through Guernsey, Aspers, Gardners, Idaville, Peach Glen, Starner's, Goodyear and Hunter's Run to Carlisle Junction near Mt. Holly Springs, where it joins the Shippensburg-Harrisburg line of the Reading to Harrisburg.

Numerous industrial and food processing plants are served by the Reading Railroad's Gettysburg branch. From Gettysburg the line curves with the terrain north through Goldenville, Biglerville, Guernsey, Aspers, Gardners, Idaville and Peach Glen before crossing the county line into Cumberland County to Carlisle Junction and thence to Harrisburg. The above picture shows the present Reading Station at Gardners.

Independent Operations

The Gettysburg and Harrisburg railroad was operated independently from the time of its completion until it was merged with the South Mountain Railroad and Mining Company July 30, 1891. The latter company was incorporated on July 16, 1877, to take over the railroads, franchises, etc., of the South Mountain Iron Company, sold under foreclosure proceedings June 14, 1877, to Thomas B. Kennedy.

The South Mountain Iron Company constructed its railroad in 1868-69 from a junction with the Cumberland Valley Railroad at Carlisle to Pine Grove Furnace. The portion from Hunter's Run to Pine Grove Furnace, eight miles, was leased to the Hunter's Run and Slate Belt Railroad Company.

The date of organization of the South Mountain Iron Company is unknown, according to corporate histories in the offices of the Reading Company in Philadelphia. It was incorporated by act of legislature April 23, 1864. The iron company was authorized to construct and operate a railroad and to borrow money for that purpose by mortgage February 28, 1865. Foreclosure proceedings were brought against it in 1877, instituted by the Cumberland Valley Railroad bondholders.

Was Court Order

The Gettysburg Times of August 1, 1923, claimed that the "Stop, Look and Listen" signs on all the nation's railroads actually originated in Gettysburg.

Col. J. C. Fuller, vice president and manager of The Gettysburg and Harrisburg lines, was in court, and heard a judge state that a defendant must "stop, look and listen" before crossing railroads. Fuller was impressed and put up a "stop, look and listen" sign here and then at all crossings of the G and H. Other railroads followed suit and on July 23, 1891, the Pennsylvania legislature made it compulsory in Pennsylvania. Other states soon followed suit.

Adams County for several years had another railroad, the East Berlin Railroad, organized in 1876. The company operated a line seven and a quarter miles in length from East Berlin to Berlin Junction near the Alwine brick yard south of New Oxford via Abbottstown.

The company was re-organized in 1903. From 1933 to 1938 trains made three trips a week. After 1938 no regular schedule was maintained.

Railroad Is Dissolved

The final chapter in the East Berlin Railroad's history was written in 1942 when Judge W. C. Sheely, president judge of the Adams County Court of Common Pleas, signed an order of dissolution and appointed William P. Baker of Abbottstown as receiver.

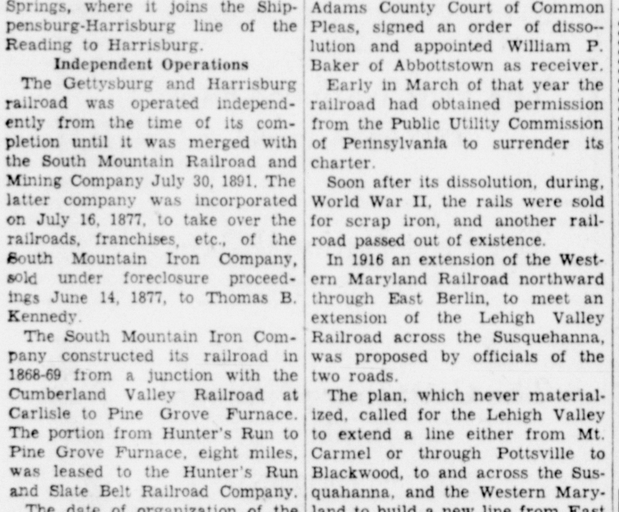

Early in March of that year the railroad had obtained permission from the Public Utility Commission of Pennsylvania to surrender its charter.

Soon after its dissolution, during, World War II, the rails were sold for scrap iron, and another railroad passed out of existence.

In 1916 an extension of the Western Maryland Railroad northward through East Berlin, to meet an extension of the Lehigh Valley Railroad across the Susquehanna, was proposed by officials of the two roads.

The plan, which never materialized, called for the Lehigh Valley to extend a line either from Mt. Carmel or through Pottsville to Blackwood, to and across the Susquahanna, and the Western Maryland to build a new line from East Berlin north through Carlisle to join the Lehigh Valley extension.

Gettysburg and Adams County today have excellent rail connections and freight service, but no passenger service. Buses and private automobiles have replaced the old coaches, and even the "iron horse" is being crowded out on the freight trains by the less romantic but more efficient and powerful Diesel locomotives.

Located on the old Gettysburg and Harrisburg Railroad line north of Gettysburg, the sign on this station says "Bendersville," but it is located at Aspers. Efforts were made at one time to have the name changed to the latter, but were abandoned because of the cost of altering schedules, forms and other difficulties. The community of Bendersville is not on the railroad at all, and is located approximately two miles west of the station which bears its name.

Tulips Glorify Spring In Front Yard Flower Gardens

Various Clans of Tall, Late Tulips.

The front yard flower gardens which attractively frame and decorate so many new ranch-type houses throughout our country can display flowers in bloom during seven to eight months every year.

Annual flowers alone will provide color for early summer until the winter freeze-up; but for flowers before the annuals bloom it will be necessary to plant fall bulbs. For almost six spring weeks tulips will provide a variety of coloring which not even June can surpass, provided all the available kinds of tulips are used.

Early tulips have clear bright colors, with blossoms held firmly on strong stems 7 to 9 inches tall. All flowers of a variety are the same height and blossom at the same time. They are intended to be planted in masses, 4 to 6 inches apart, and when they bloom there is no doubt of their effect in the garden display.

Before the early tulips flower, species tulips bloom. They are wild flowers native to eastern Europe. Red Emperor, one of the largest of all tulips, is the most popular variety. Following the early tulips and overlapping with their season come a class known as Triumph tulips, hybrids produced by crossing Darwin and Early varieties. Before they fade the Darwin tulips begin, and usually their flowers last until June.

Early tulips include both single and double varieties, both bred for mass planting in formal patterns. These are the flowers to use to border paths, in parkways, or corner beds. The tall late tulips, of which Darwins are only one type, are best planted in the border where there is a background for them, arranged with 5 to 25 bulbs of one variety in a group. All tulips are most effective when the colors of adjoining groups are in strong contrast, blue-violets separating reds and yellows, and the pinks grouped with pale yellow and lilac varieties to bring out their coloring.

It is impossible to plan an effective tulip display without studying the several tulip clans which bloom last. These are not all Darwins, though often so classified in garden conversation. Each clan has unique qualities, the Darwins soft pastel coloring, the Cottage tulips bright colors and long pointed petals, and the Breeder tulips, oldest of all, richly blended coloring in which there is always a touch of brown.

The newest tulip varieties are found among named varieties of Parrot tulips, and tall, late flowering double varieties. All these blossom with the Darwins, but they're so different in form, that they stand out in the planting, and should be used at focal points. Late double tulips rival peonies in size and beauty, while the parrots can fairly be compared to orchids, in size and color brilliance.

Things Of The Soil

TIMBER GROWING OPPORTUNITIES

Largely because Americans are only a few generations away from pioneers who hewed a nation from a virgin forest, we are unable or unwilling to recognize the urgency for a sound program of rebuilding our forests on a plain, workable fact that timber is a farm cash crop. If land owners could once realize that they may enjoy greater cash returns from an acre of salable timber than from a comparable acre of potatoes, wheat or other commonly grown revenue crop, we should soon emerge from our present dangerous position of national dependence on outside sources for several vital forest products.

And although there are many excellent timber trees suitable for forestry "cash cropping" purposes, black locust serves as a good example. Spacing 6 by 6 feet, which is recommended, allows approximately 1,200 trees per acre. Suppose a farmer planted only one acre of land to this tree each year, by the time trees of the first acre reached marketable size as fencing posts, which is from 12 to 15 years, he would have posts from 1,200 trees moving to market annually. Figured in cold dollars and cents this is a better investment than any other phase of farming ever devised. Any person who doubts this statement should price black locust posts at his local urban dealer's lumber yard.

Similar opportunities are at hand in growing persimmon, dogwood, hickory, black walnut, ash and several other hardwood trees whose timbers are in wide demand for special purposes.

Planting costs are not high. Black locust plantings may be started by setting out volunteer sprouts from native stands. Too, this tree is easily grown from seed in well drained garden beds. Hickory and black walnut trees are easily grown from nuts. Most states maintain nurseries from which citizens may purchase trees at cost.

In the production of timber for paper pulp Americans are offered an opportunity that may ultimately decide the retention of our liberty. Scarcely is a prophet's vision necessary in the light of current events to know that if we ever lose our cherished liberty of the press it will occur when a strongly centralized government on Washington seizes on the excuse that paper and pupl imports should be controlled during time of war. Right at this hour the executive powers of federal government could throttle freedom of the press through import regulations. Americans find their most potent weapon of defense against this danger in growing a supply of pulp wood within our borders adequate to render us independent of outside sources. We do not have that independence today.

Growing timber to meet our national building requirements, for making many essential wood products, and for feeding our vast paper mills is not and never will be a task for that non-existent think we flippantly and foolishly call "the government." It is the patriotic duty of every individual citizen. And the farmer bears a double load of this responsibility because he controls the only medium—soil. Too, his is the great incentive because he may and should adopt timber as one of his chief cash crops.

Many farmers are growing wheat or corn or potatoes or other feed or food crop year after year at losses or at slim margins of profit. And almost every farm in this part of the country has at least a few idle acres of land admirably suitable for timber growing. Why cannot the profit incentive, the patriotic responsibility, and the inherent American spirit of Getting-Things-Done be linked up into a nationwide program of productive action?

MISTAKES WITH WINTER MULCHES

Farmers, orchardists, vegetable and small fruit gardeners, and ornamental plant growers often turn the potential benefits of winter mulching into channels of loss because they do not stop first to consider why protective mulching is practiced. And almost invariably their failure to understand the basic "why" of the task leads to the major mistake of applying mulch too early. In fact, the "why" and the "when" and the "what" of winter mulching are matters which cannot safely be left to habit or guess-work.

Winter mulches are not used for "overcoat" purposes. They are not intended to keep plants warm. In most cases the exact opposite is true — winter mulches are employed to keep the ground frozen and thereby prevent alternate freezing and thawing. This important truth immediately suggests that such mulches should not be applied until after the ground is frozen.

Logically if winter mulching is necessary chiefly to keep the ground frozen, the kind of materials assumes a vital role. Any mulch that packs down and becomes sodden will not serve. It may conceivably injure the plants it is intended to help. Thus, in almost all mulching roles the material should be light and airy, such as straw or marsh hay. This type of mulch permits air to circulate and at the same time it shades the soil surface and prevents thawing after the ground is once frozen. As a result heaving is greatly decreased.

Because this subject would require many pages to discuss in detail, the following general recommendations are offered:

Do not mulch over-wintering plants where heaving has not been injurious in previous years.

Drainage to eliminate standing surface water and to keep the water table low in the soil over winter is often more important than protective mulching.

Rhododendrons, mountain laurel, and azaleas are usually mulched with hardwood forest leaves in early fall or late summer to conserve soil moisture and keep the soils acid. Such mulches are continued over winter without regard to the protective factor.

Strawberries are mulches not only to prevent heaving but to protect the somewhat delicate crown buds from low temperatures. For this purpose straw or hay is applied over the rows after the temperature has dropped once to 20 degrees F. and before it goes lower. Early December is usually the proper time.

Fall-planted onions winter safely without mulching if heaving does not occur. However, a light, airy mulch is usually beneficial.

Few hardy trees need any winter protection. The practice of mounding soil up around trees and shrubs in the fall seldom serves any beneficial purpose except to promote good drainage.

Almost 89 million residents of the United States are members of some church.

POLICE SEEK SLAYER OF FOUR

CHESTER, Calif. (AP) — Authorities today hoped a bloodstained lead pipe and a brutally beaten little girl would help them find the robber who beat a grocer and three other children to death near here Friday.

"I'm banking a lot on what the child will tell us," Sheriff M. H. Schooler said. "She's a bright little girl, way beyond her years."

Grocer Gard Young had taken the four children to Westwood on his weekly trip to withdraw money from the bank for Saturday's big check cashing business.

Some $7,100 Young withdrew is missing. Police said the slayer must have known of this routine and felt it necessary to bludgeon the children because they presumably recognized him.

Sondra was placed under guard at the hospital, officers said, on the theory the killer might try to remove her as a witness.

Celebrate Ike's Birthday Tuesday

Thousands of family style birthday parties will be held in homes across the nation, Tuesday, October 14, in honor of Dwight D. Eisenhower's 62nd birthday. The celebration will be highlighted by a five-minute radio tributed 9:55 p.m. over the Mutual Broadcasting System. The broadcast originating in San Antonio, Texas, is being sponsored by "Women Power for Eisenhower of Texas."

The Women's Division of the Republican National Committee, which has co-ordinated the nation wide plans for the celebration, said the event will be kept to simple, informal home parties wherein the entire family would have an extra household birthday celebration with birthday cake, candles, and all the trimmings.

Freedom Train, Pennsylvania Week Special Were Brought To Gettysburg Over Reading

This is the eleventh and final installment in a series of articles on railroading in Adams County.

The rails of the G and H carried two more "passenger" trains after regular service was abandoned, however. The first was the "Freedom Train" special, which thrilled thousands with its visit here on November 18 and 19, 1948. On October 23, 1950, Gettysburg was the last stop, before returning to Harrisburg, for the "Pennsylvania Week" special, with a galaxy of movie and radio stars, "Miss Pennsylvania," and high ranking state officials, including Governor James H. Duff, now U. S. senator from Pennsylvania. Mr. Fleagle was the conductor on the "Pennsylvania Week Special."

Freight service is the business of the G and H now, and it serves well it territory and interchanges freight with the Western Maryland in Gettysburg.

The line, from the old passenger station (now closed) on N. Washington St, curves just below Oak Ridge, where some of the stiffest fighting of the first day of the Battle of Gettysburg took place, across state highway route 34 (The Gettysburg-Biglerville - Carlisle Rd.) to Goldenville and Biglerville, and almost directly north through Guernsey, Aspers, Gardners, Idaville, Peach Glen, Starner's, Goodyear and Hunter's Run to Carlisle Junction near Mt. Holly Springs, where it joins the Shippensburg-Harrisburg line of the Reading to Harrisburg.

Numerous industrial and food processing plants are served by the Reading Railroad's Gettysburg branch. From Gettysburg the line curves with the terrain north through Goldenville, Biglerville, Guernsey, Aspers, Gardners, Idaville and Peach Glen before crossing the county line into Cumberland County to Carlisle Junction and thence to Harrisburg. The above picture shows the present Reading Station at Gardners.

Independent Operations

The Gettysburg and Harrisburg railroad was operated independently from the time of its completion until it was merged with the South Mountain Railroad and Mining Company July 30, 1891. The latter company was incorporated on July 16, 1877, to take over the railroads, franchises, etc., of the South Mountain Iron Company, sold under foreclosure proceedings June 14, 1877, to Thomas B. Kennedy.

The South Mountain Iron Company constructed its railroad in 1868-69 from a junction with the Cumberland Valley Railroad at Carlisle to Pine Grove Furnace. The portion from Hunter's Run to Pine Grove Furnace, eight miles, was leased to the Hunter's Run and Slate Belt Railroad Company.

The date of organization of the South Mountain Iron Company is unknown, according to corporate histories in the offices of the Reading Company in Philadelphia. It was incorporated by act of legislature April 23, 1864. The iron company was authorized to construct and operate a railroad and to borrow money for that purpose by mortgage February 28, 1865. Foreclosure proceedings were brought against it in 1877, instituted by the Cumberland Valley Railroad bondholders.

Was Court Order

The Gettysburg Times of August 1, 1923, claimed that the "Stop, Look and Listen" signs on all the nation's railroads actually originated in Gettysburg.

Col. J. C. Fuller, vice president and manager of The Gettysburg and Harrisburg lines, was in court, and heard a judge state that a defendant must "stop, look and listen" before crossing railroads. Fuller was impressed and put up a "stop, look and listen" sign here and then at all crossings of the G and H. Other railroads followed suit and on July 23, 1891, the Pennsylvania legislature made it compulsory in Pennsylvania. Other states soon followed suit.

Adams County for several years had another railroad, the East Berlin Railroad, organized in 1876. The company operated a line seven and a quarter miles in length from East Berlin to Berlin Junction near the Alwine brick yard south of New Oxford via Abbottstown.

The company was re-organized in 1903. From 1933 to 1938 trains made three trips a week. After 1938 no regular schedule was maintained.

Railroad Is Dissolved

The final chapter in the East Berlin Railroad's history was written in 1942 when Judge W. C. Sheely, president judge of the Adams County Court of Common Pleas, signed an order of dissolution and appointed William P. Baker of Abbottstown as receiver.

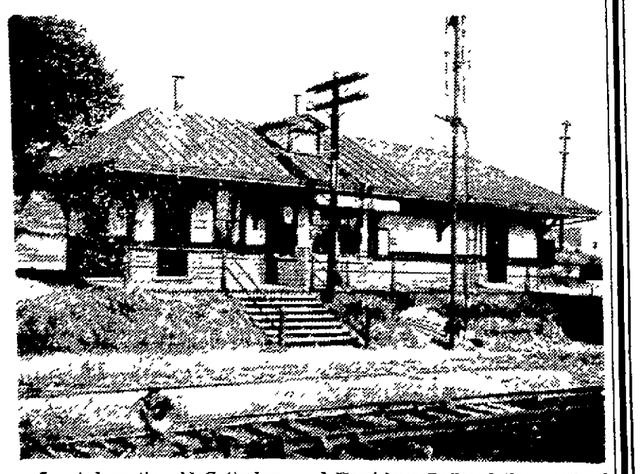

Early in March of that year the railroad had obtained permission from the Public Utility Commission of Pennsylvania to surrender its charter.

Soon after its dissolution, during, World War II, the rails were sold for scrap iron, and another railroad passed out of existence.

In 1916 an extension of the Western Maryland Railroad northward through East Berlin, to meet an extension of the Lehigh Valley Railroad across the Susquehanna, was proposed by officials of the two roads.

The plan, which never materialized, called for the Lehigh Valley to extend a line either from Mt. Carmel or through Pottsville to Blackwood, to and across the Susquahanna, and the Western Maryland to build a new line from East Berlin north through Carlisle to join the Lehigh Valley extension.

Gettysburg and Adams County today have excellent rail connections and freight service, but no passenger service. Buses and private automobiles have replaced the old coaches, and even the "iron horse" is being crowded out on the freight trains by the less romantic but more efficient and powerful Diesel locomotives.

Located on the old Gettysburg and Harrisburg Railroad line north of Gettysburg, the sign on this station says "Bendersville," but it is located at Aspers. Efforts were made at one time to have the name changed to the latter, but were abandoned because of the cost of altering schedules, forms and other difficulties. The community of Bendersville is not on the railroad at all, and is located approximately two miles west of the station which bears its name.

Darwin — Cottage — Breeder — Triumph

Various Clans of Tall, Late Tulips.

The front yard flower gardens which attractively frame and decorate so many new ranch-type houses throughout our country can display flowers in bloom during seven to eight months every year.

Annual flowers alone will provide color for early summer until the winter freeze-up; but for flowers before the annuals bloom it will be necessary to plant fall bulbs. For almost six spring weeks tulips will provide a variety of coloring which not even June can surpass, provided all the available kinds of tulips are used.

Early tulips have clear bright colors, with blossoms held firmly on strong stems 7 to 9 inches tall. All flowers of a variety are the same height and blossom at the same time. They are intended to be planted in masses, 4 to 6 inches apart, and when they bloom there is no doubt of their effect in the garden display.

Before the early tulips flower, species tulips bloom. They are wild flowers native to eastern Europe. Red Emperor, one of the largest of all tulips, is the most popular variety. Following the early tulips and overlapping with their season come a class known as Triumph tulips, hybrids produced by crossing Darwin and Early varieties. Before they fade the Darwin tulips begin, and usually their flowers last until June.

Early tulips include both single and double varieties, both bred for mass planting in formal patterns. These are the flowers to use to border paths, in parkways, or corner beds. The tall late tulips, of which Darwins are only one type, are best planted in the border where there is a background for them, arranged with 5 to 25 bulbs of one variety in a group. All tulips are most effective when the colors of adjoining groups are in strong contrast, blue-violets separating reds and yellows, and the pinks grouped with pale yellow and lilac varieties to bring out their coloring.

It is impossible to plan an effective tulip display without studying the several tulip clans which bloom last. These are not all Darwins, though often so classified in garden conversation. Each clan has unique qualities, the Darwins soft pastel coloring, the Cottage tulips bright colors and long pointed petals, and the Breeder tulips, oldest of all, richly blended coloring in which there is always a touch of brown.

The newest tulip varieties are found among named varieties of Parrot tulips, and tall, late flowering double varieties. All these blossom with the Darwins, but they're so different in form, that they stand out in the planting, and should be used at focal points. Late double tulips rival peonies in size and beauty, while the parrots can fairly be compared to orchids, in size and color brilliance.

Things Of The Soil

Largely because Americans are only a few generations away from pioneers who hewed a nation from a virgin forest, we are unable or unwilling to recognize the urgency for a sound program of rebuilding our forests on a plain, workable fact that timber is a farm cash crop. If land owners could once realize that they may enjoy greater cash returns from an acre of salable timber than from a comparable acre of potatoes, wheat or other commonly grown revenue crop, we should soon emerge from our present dangerous position of national dependence on outside sources for several vital forest products.

And although there are many excellent timber trees suitable for forestry "cash cropping" purposes, black locust serves as a good example. Spacing 6 by 6 feet, which is recommended, allows approximately 1,200 trees per acre. Suppose a farmer planted only one acre of land to this tree each year, by the time trees of the first acre reached marketable size as fencing posts, which is from 12 to 15 years, he would have posts from 1,200 trees moving to market annually. Figured in cold dollars and cents this is a better investment than any other phase of farming ever devised. Any person who doubts this statement should price black locust posts at his local urban dealer's lumber yard.

Similar opportunities are at hand in growing persimmon, dogwood, hickory, black walnut, ash and several other hardwood trees whose timbers are in wide demand for special purposes.

Planting costs are not high. Black locust plantings may be started by setting out volunteer sprouts from native stands. Too, this tree is easily grown from seed in well drained garden beds. Hickory and black walnut trees are easily grown from nuts. Most states maintain nurseries from which citizens may purchase trees at cost.

In the production of timber for paper pulp Americans are offered an opportunity that may ultimately decide the retention of our liberty. Scarcely is a prophet's vision necessary in the light of current events to know that if we ever lose our cherished liberty of the press it will occur when a strongly centralized government on Washington seizes on the excuse that paper and pupl imports should be controlled during time of war. Right at this hour the executive powers of federal government could throttle freedom of the press through import regulations. Americans find their most potent weapon of defense against this danger in growing a supply of pulp wood within our borders adequate to render us independent of outside sources. We do not have that independence today.

Growing timber to meet our national building requirements, for making many essential wood products, and for feeding our vast paper mills is not and never will be a task for that non-existent think we flippantly and foolishly call "the government." It is the patriotic duty of every individual citizen: And the farmer bears a double load of this responsibility because he controls the only medium—soil. Too, his is the great incentive because he may and should, adopt timber as one of his chief cash crops.

Many farmers are growing wheat or corn or potatoes or other feed or food crop year after year, at losses or at slim margins of profit. And almost every farm in this part of the country has at least a few idle acres of land admirably suitable for timber growing. Why cannot the profit incentive, the patriotic responsibility, and the inherent American spirit of Getting-Things-Done be linked up into a nationwide program of productive action?

MISTAKES WITH WINTER MULCHES

Farmers, orchardists, vegetable and small fruit gardeners, and ornamental plant growers often turn the potential benefits of winter mulching into channels of loss because they do not stop first to consider why protective mulching is practiced. And almost invariably their failure to understand the basic "why" of the task leads to the major mistake of applying mulch too early. In fact, the "why" and the "when" and the "what" of winter mulching are matters which cannot safely be left to habit or guess-work.

Winter mulches are not used for "overcoat" purposes. They are not intended to keep plants warm. In most cases the exact opposite is true — winter mulches are employed to keep the ground frozen and thereby prevent alternate freezing and thawing. This important truth immediately suggests that such mulches should not be applied until after the ground is frozen.

Logically if winter mulching is necessary chiefly to keep the ground frozen, the kind of materials assumes a vital role. Any mulch that packs down and becomes sodden will not serve. It may conceivably injure the plants it is intended to help. Thus, in almost all mulching roles the material should be light and airy, such as straw or marsh hay. This type of mulch permits air to circulate and at the same time it shades the soil surface and prevents thawing after the ground is once frozen. As a result heaving is greatly decreased.

Because this subject would require many pages to discuss in detail, the following general recommendations are offered:

Do not mulch over-wintering plants where heaving has not been injurious in previous years.

Drainage to eliminate standing surface water and to keep the water table low in the soil over winter is often more important than protective mulching.

Rhododendrons, mountain laurel, and azaleas are usually mulched with hardwood forest leaves in early fall or late summer to conserve soil moisture and keep the soils acid. Such mulches are continued over winter without regard to the protective factor.

Strawberries are mulches not only to prevent heaving but to protect the somewhat delicate crown buds from low temperatures. For this purpose straw or hay is applied over the rows after the temperature has dropped once to 20 degrees F. and before it goes lower. Early December is usually the proper time.

Fall-planted onions winter safely without mulching if heaving does not occur. However, a light, airy mulch is usually beneficial.

Few hardy trees need any winter protection. The practice of mounding soil up around trees and shrubs in the fall seldom serves any beneficial purpose except to promote good drainage.

EXPECT LEWIS TO NAME CHOICE FOR PRESIDENT

By NORMAN WALKER

CINCINNATI (AP)—John L. Lewis was expected to make known his stand on the presidential political race today as sessions of the 41st United Mine Workers Convention were resumed.

A slowly growing strike of coal miners and politics were the chief subjects ticketed for comment by the union's president before convention adjournment next Wednesday.

The strike started Friday when several hundred miners at a Peabody Coal Co. mine near Harrisburg, Ill., walked out. Other Peabody mines in Illinois and Indiana were due to join the walkout today, boosting to about 5,000 the number of idle.

WSB Still Considering

The men refused to work when given paychecks lacking the $1.90 a day pay raise Lewis recently negotiated for the miners. Employeers throughout the soft coal industry have taken the position that, although they are ready and willing to pay the higher wages, they may not do so until the government approves the pay raise.

The Wage Stabilization Board in Washington is considering the increase, which brings the basic miner's wage to $18.25 a day, but probably won't decide for several days yet whether the increase is inflationary or not.

The increase was effective Oct. 1 and it seemed clear more and more miners will join the strike when their paychecks appear without the added money. However, some payrolls won't be due for at least 10 days from now, making a complete strike unlikely for a while.

It was taken for granted by union delegates that a full industry-wide strike could be expected if the WSB turns thumbs down on the pay raise, or approves only part of it.

Machine-gun Blasts Quell 4th New Jersey Prison Riot

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—About 20 knife-wielding convicts barricaded themselves in a wing of Trenton State Prison last night in a two-hour riot that was quelled by machine-gun blasts.

Two prisoners were injured by ricocheting bullets fired over the rioters' heads by correction officers who smashed through a barricade of stools, tables and wooden scaffolding.

Three guards had been held as hostages, but were rescued unharmed in this fourth major outbreak in the prison this year.

Extremely Desperate

The rebel convicts, described as "extremely desperate" long-termers, holed themselves up in Wing No. 7 upon their return from their evening meal, and, after locking 300 fellow inmates in another section, tried sawing their way to freedom, one of the hostages said. But they gave up in their escape attempt when their makeshift hacksaws failed them.

Shouting defiance to prison officials, the rebellious band proceeded to break up portions of the wing. But a preliminary examination of the cell block showed that there was no serious damage.

The door to the wing was forced partially open by correction officers, and one of them managed to squirm through. He was covered by submachine-gun fire. Other guards followed and forced their way up each of the five tiers of cells.

Ended In Two Hours

Correction officers gained control of the wing, and the overhead blasts of machine-gun fire ended the rebellion two hours after it started. The rioters were placed in segregation cells.

Acting Warden Lloyd W. McCorkle said the convicts were trying "to gain public sympathy for the men in segregation as a result of the previous riots." Reports also circulated that the convicts rioted in a demand for better living conditions, including television.

One of the wounded convicts was reported in serious condition in the prison hospital. He was shot in the chest. The other received only a superficial wound in the hand, prison officials said.

We live in a great state. Let's boost and be proud of our state and community.

...so proudly we hail—

Pennsylvania, where the Liberty Bell first proclaimed freedom, is busily engaged today in a job no other state can do in providing sinews of strength for the free world. First in vital mineral output, leader in production for 56 industries, plentifully supplied with economical electric power and outstanding in agriculture, Pennsylvania is literally the "Keystone of the Nation" just as it was in 1776 when the Declaration of Independence was proclaimed within its boundaries. One can well be proud to be a Pennsylvanian, to know that our Commonwealth is ready, willing and able to meet the responsibilities and obligations of democracy.

POLICE SEEK SLAYER OF FOUR

CHESTER, Calif (AP) — Authorities today hoped a bloodstained lead pipe and a brutally beaten little girl would help them find the robber who beat a grocer and three other children to death near here Friday.

"I'm banking a lot on what the child will tell us," Sheriff M H Schooler said "She's a bright little girl, way beyond her years"

Grocer Gard Young had taken the four children to Westwood on his weekly trip to withdraw money from the bank for Saturday's big check cashing business

Some $7 100 Young withdrew is missing Police said the slayer must have known of this routine and felt it necessary to bludgeon the children because they presumably recognized him

Sondra was placed under guard at the hospital officers said, on the theory the killer might try to remove her as a witness
